Professor Levels Charge At WT

BY CARROLL WILSON

A West Texas State University music professor charged early last week he was denied his right to attend the Republican state convention Tuesday as an alternate delegate.

In a confusing series of events throughout the latter part of the week, Dr. Donald Todd, who teaches stringed instruments, was finally granted permission to attend the convention by the university administration.

At least one professor had apparently no trouble obtaining permission to attend the Democratic state convention which is scheduled to begin Tuesday, also.

Todd revealed his predicament to The Canyon News at mid-week, after he had been told by university officials he could not attend the convention.

He told The News of this sequence of events:

On Sept. 5 or 6, Todd turned in a university form, notification of absence, to his department head, Dr. George Umberson, requesting he be allowed to obtain substitute instruction for his classes on next Monday and Tuesday so he could attend the Republican convention.

"He told me on Friday (Sept. 8) that Dr. Malzahn (Ray Malzahn, vice president for academic affairs at WTSU) found it to be an unusual request," Todd said. "He hadn't had anything like it before and wanted to study the matter over the weekend."

On Monday, Todd was called to Umberson's office and found Umberson and Dr. John Green, dean of the school of fine arts. "Umberson told me—and Green concurred—that I could not go, that I was not excused to go to the convention," Todd said. "I told them I was under the impression some Democratic delegates from the WTSU faculty might be going to their state convention. Dr. Green told me that it was a policy just established and that it would apply to any other faculty member."

After hearing of the denial, Todd wrote a letter to Dr. Malzahn.

The letter, dated Sept. 13, states in part that Todd was named an alternate delegate to the convention and that it is very important for him to attend.

"It is vital for me to attend the convention in order that the people of Randall County, Texas, may be properly represented. If I were to attend, it would necessitate my leaving the day before the convention; therefore, I would miss classes and applied music lessons on Monday and Tuesday (September 18-19). I respectfully urge you to relent from your earlier decision denying me the opportunity to participate in this vital function of the American scheme of life."

Todd told The News he had made arrangements with a senior string student and a graduate assistant to teach his two classes on Monday. He said he had contacted individual students concerning the postponement of music lessons scheduled Tuesday.

"I've used a senior student before as a substitute and it's been approved by John Green when he was head of the music department," Todd said.

Malzahn told The News Thursday night Todd could attend the convention provided suitable substitute teachers were found.

He said Todd would have to hire competent substitutes to take his classes.

He denied that Todd's department head had told Todd he couldn't attend the convention.

Malzahn told The News he would write an answer to Todd's letter.

"I'll tell him he'll have to make arrangements to pay them (substitutes)," he said. "Todd is a (See PROF, Page 5)

Des Moines, Iowa — Drake's Bulldogs took advantage of eight West Texas State University turnovers to score a 40-12 victory here Saturday afternoon in the football season opener for both teams.

The Buffaloes of WTSU saw the football slip out of their arms as fumbles 13 times during the contest and lost six of those. Two other times Buffalo passes were picked off by Drake and one of them was returned for Drake's final touchdown, a 54-yarder by Scott Rainbolt.

In addition to being the season opener for both clubs, it was also a Missouri Valley Conference clash and gives Drake an early advantage in the conference standings.

Drake Coach Jack Wallace has predicted that his team will be conference champions.

The Buff misfortunes started early as quarterback Bob Sweat fumbled a hand-off on the game's opening play from scrimmage and Drake recovered at the Buffalo 20. Six plays later, Jerry Heston went the final yard to score and Bob Smith kicked the conversion to give the Bulldogs an early 7-0 lead.

As it did most of the times in the game when the Buffs were able to hold onto the football, the wishbone offense worked to perfection the next time West Texas got the ball.

The Buffaloes moved 74 yards in 11 plays with Borger's Cole Fraley going the final yard. Arcadio Rivera's kick was wide and Drake held a 7-6 advantage with 6:20 remaining in the first quarter.

Drake defensive tackle Mike Samples tackled Sweat in the Buff end zone as the Buff quarterback attempted to pass with 3:16 showing on the first quarter clock. That gave Drake a 9-6 lead.

Following an interception by defensive end Walter Hibbler and a return of 55 yards, the Buffaloes pushed for their first score with 14:56 left in the first half.

Fraley tallied from the five to climax the 12-yard push. Juan Garza kicked wide and the Buffs led 12-9.

Drake finally got its offense cranked up and moved 74 yards in 11 plays with the next kick-off to take a 16-12 lead. Heston tallied on a four-yard run and Smith converted.

Following a Buffalo fumble at their own 4-yard line, Drake quickly scored again. Pete Solverson took a pass from quarterback Dennis Redmond on the first play following the Buff fumble and Drake led 23-12, following Smith's conversion kick.

The Buffaloes quickly moved down the field in the remaining 1:03 of the first half but saw time run out on them on the Drake 3-yard line.

In the third quarter, Rex Perry caught a 41-yard scoring pass from Redmond and Bob Smith converted to give the Bulldogs a commanding 30-12 lead.

Smith converted on a 21-yard field goal attempt and Rainbolt returned the pass interception for Drake's fourth quarter scoring.

The Buffs held an advantage in first downs, 18-6 and in yards rushing 206-203.

With Redmond doing the pitching, the Bulldogs did, however, (See BUFFS, Page 5)

All you can see are Bulldogs as Canyon running back Bill Moore tries to find running room in Friday night's game in Canyon. The Eagles lost 7-0 to Borger in the second game of the season.

Eagles Lose 7 to 0 to Bulldogs

Canyon's Eagles were caught off-guard Friday night by a team which advertised its passing game and showed up in Kimbrough Stadium with a solid running attack.

Eagle defenders had been training last week for the Borger passing game and when Borger came to Canyon it blasted holes in the middle of the Canyon line to carry home a 7-0 win over the locals.

It was the second close defeat of the season for the Eagles. They lost last week to Spearman 18-13.

Led by the driving punch of Glenn Gray, a 158-pound junior, the Bulldogs racked up no pass yardage during Friday night's tilt.

Lone score of the evening was set in the first two minutes of the game.

The Eagles elected to receive the initial kickoff and took the ball on their own 22 yard line.

In just three plays, it appeared the Eagles had it together for a sustaining drive downfield.

But, with a first and 10 on his own 38, starting quarterback Ed Lair, a 168-pound Canyon junior, let the ball slip from his hands and Borger recovered on the 36 yard line of Eagle territory.

In just nine plays covering about three minutes, the Bulldogs had driven to score from the one on a run by Gray.

The kick was good and with 6:49 showing on the first period clock, Borger had a 7-0 edge.

It was an edge they were to hold through the remainder of the game, as both teams plunged up and down the field in search of a score.

The Eagles threatened with just minutes remaining in the second half after they had driven from their own 45 to the Bulldog 22.

Key play of the series was a pass from Bill Moore, who started the game at the running back position, to Matt Hanson. Hanson ran the ball to the 22.

Unfortunately, because of penalties, the 20-yard pass play wasn't good enough for a first down and with a fourth down situation, the Eagles elected to try a field goal.

Moore kicked the ball but it was blocked by a Bulldog defender and Borger took over possession on its own 33.

Borger threatened again early in the fourth quarter as they drove to the Eagle 13 and were stopped on a fourth down situation.

They threatened with just 1:12 showing on the clock as they drove from their own 24 yard line to the Eagle 14 and attempted a field goal to put the game on ice.

The try was no good and the Eagles took over for their last opportunity to even up the game.

In the ensuing five plays, Lair attempted four passes and the Eagles were called on two penalties which set them back to their own 5.

Lair rolled back to pass once again and was dropped on the 3.

In a desperation effort, he (See EAGLES, Page 5)

Poff and Sherman Critical Of Special Session Call

Canyon's representatives to the Texas legislature will reluctantly return to Austin Monday for Gov. Preston Smith's called special session on insurance reform.

Rep. Bryan Poff and Sen. Max Sherman expressed dismay with the early week announcement of the session by the Texas governor.

"It's a good subject but a bad time," Poff said. "It's a very worthy subject but I'm not sure his timing is right."

Sherman voiced similar sentiments.

"The problem is that this should have been done a year ago," Poff said. "With November approaching, people have elections coming up and half the legislature isn't going to be down there. June would have been a better time to do it."

Poff believes Smith's action was motivated by his anger that his appointee Larry Teaver was not confirmed to head the state's insurance board.

"He was motivated by that appointment plus the fact that Crawford Martin (attorney general) said he could not do a lot of budgetary functions," Poff said. "But, you never can predict what Preston Smith's going to do."

"This is the first time that I can remember that we've had a special session form to undertake something of this type."

Sherman is concerned about the effectiveness of the legislature in the session which begins Monday.

"The main thing that concerns me is that this is a lame-duck session and over half the house and half the senate won't be coming back," he said. "I'm just not sure they have the same accountability to the people and this is a serious issue. I have my doubts."

Sherman, like Poff, believes Smith was motivated by his ire at the failure of his Teaver appointment and by the recent rulings against his power by Martin.

"He was very upset by Teaver not being confirmed," Sherman said. "Then, he made a statewide television broadcast hinting about this session. Some indications I got were that he was backing away from calling this session."

"Then, Crawford said he didn't have the right to transfer certain funds and I think it was a combination of those two things that caused him to call the special session now."

Nevertheless, Sherman believes some good legislation can come out of the special session.

"I think it could be if we can concentrate on that one area," he said. "But, I think it would be better if we could take it up in a full session."

Survey To Begin On Day Care Need

The funding may not be available, but staff members at the Texas Panhandle Community Action Corporation will begin soon a survey in Canyon and 25 other counties of the area to determine whether there is a need for day care centers in those counties.

County Judge Woody Pond, president of the TPCAC, said he requested the survey be run in Canyon at Thursday night's meeting of the corporation's executive committee in Amarillo.

He said he was told by Argus Burnett, executive director, that Labor Department officials in Fort Worth had requested a survey be accomplished in every Panhandle county. It is anticipated that if the need for such centers in several areas is proven, funding might become available.

Six other requests for surveys on the feasibility of establishing day care centers were heard by the executive committee members Thursday.

"I can see there might be a need for one in Canyon," Pond said, "with probably all the working mothers we might have putting their husbands through school."

Currently, Amarillo has the only operating year-round day-care center. A center was operated in Wellington and

University Withdraws From Metro Intelligence Squad

West Texas State University is no longer a part of the Randall-Potter Metro Intelligence Unit. The disclosure was made this week by University Police Chief Jim Passons.

Passons, in an exclusive News interview, said the move was made because of a shortage of men and was in no way due to recent problems experienced by the multi-agency unit. "We have two officers who will be attending a six-week certification school beginning Oct. 2, and Lee (Patrolman Wilmer Lee Morgan) was brought back to the campus," said the chief. "We need his experience and training here, especially with two men going away to school."

Morgan, a member of the department for more than two years, spent one year in Amarillo with the Metro Unit. He is one of only two department members now certified by the state. Capt. A.R. Potts is the other.

Chief Passons said officers Kenneth L. Grantham and Clifford Summar will take the 240-hour certification course beginning in October. The chief and Jesse H. Hooper, both not yet certified, will enroll in a similar school at a later date.

According to state law, all police officers must have a minimum of 200 school hours and one year of in-the-field experience.

Another member of the department, David M. McCauley, has the required schooling and will have one year experience within the next three weeks.

Mayor J. Manly Bryan signed a proclamation late last week proclaiming today through next Saturday as Bicycle Safety Week in Canyon. Helping with the signing are Cary Magness, left, who is heading up the week's activities in Canyon, and bike riders Charlie Childs, 11, son of LTC and Mrs. John Childs, and Stan Sanders, 11, son of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Sanders.

Bike Safety Week To Begin Today

The Safest Cycling City in America. That is the goal set for Canyon in a bicycle safety drive starting today.

Service, safety and civic groups have pooled their facilities and personnel under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce to make everyone of Canyon's estimated several hundred cyclists safety-conscious.

"There are nearly 70 million cyclists in America today," Cary Magness of the Chamber noted, "from youngsters of six to 'oldsters' of 76. It's part of a nationwide boom in recreational cycling. This increase in cycling activities increases the individual's responsibility to ride safely."

"Almost every bike accident can be traced to lack of knowledge or negligence on the part of the rider," he said. "National statistics compiled by the Bicycle Institute of America show that the greatest number of mishaps occur because of traffic rule violations or bicycles improperly cared for by owners."

"We're going to let every cyclist know what he should do and then try to see that he does it," he continued. "It takes very little extra effort to avoid accidents. Riding by the rules is the best way to keep your bike a vehicle for good health and pleasure."

Bike week climaxes Saturday with a full day of activities.

But, until then, plenty of things are in the mill to make Canyon's residents more safety conscious.

The women's division of the chamber, for example, is sponsoring a poster contest for elementary school students at Rex Reeves and Gene Howe schools. Judging will be done during the week and awards given Saturday, according to division president Virginia Cotten.

GOP, Demos Head For Convention

U.S. Senator John Tower, his wife and family being greeted by well-wishers on their campaign stop at Tradewinds Airport Thursday afternoon. (See story on Page 2)

Randall County will be well represented by both Republicans and Democrats Tuesday when both parties hold state conventions in Austin.

The conventions for the state's two major parties are being held in compliance with the Texas Election Code and are to adopt platforms for their respective gubernatorial candidates. At the same time, the returns from the spring primaries will be canvassed and candidates for state offices certified. Both parties are expected to select officers and members of their state executive committees.

Randall County Republican Chairman W. Tom Price 111, of 3004 S. Hayden in Amarillo, said that an estimated 30 delegates, alternates and party members would depart by chartered bus early Monday morning.

They will hear as their keynote speaker Gov. Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, that state's first Republican governor in 50 years. Other speakers slated to address the GOP include Hank Grover, candidate for governor, U. S. Sen. John Tower, state chairman George Willeford, state vice-chairman Mrs. Malcom Milburn, treasurer candidate Maurice Angly and railroad commission candidate Jim Segrest.

County Chairman Price said that he expected no political "surprises" at the one-day gathering but he did not count out some changes in party policy. "Selecting officers and the committee will be the biggest thing," he predicted.

This will be the second convention for the Texas GOP this year, with the first one in Galveston (See GOP, Page 5)

Our World

We're Great People
Despite Detractors

By ANN BROWN

One hundred and twenty young Japanese farmers are currently touring the United States. They are being royally entertained in the homes of American farmers.

There is probably not one family hosting the visitors who did not have relatives involved in the war with Japan. And all of the visitors' families were affected by the war and the occupation.

How can two peoples so recently engaged in such bitter conflict be friends?

There can be only one answer: Americans are a great people, and farmers are the backbone of the nation.

Japan was cruel, treacherous, implacable enemy. Yet after America was victorious, we made no attempt to wreak vengeance on the conquered peoples. Rather, MacArthur's army of occupation ministered to the needs, bound up the wounds, and set a fallen nation on its feet again.

The visiting Japanese want to learn American farming methods, but they insist they are far more interested in learning our customs, way of life, and what makes this such a "great, free land."

God's world has always been beautiful. But evil reared its ugly head in the very first family on earth. Eve's disobedience was followed by the birth of an evil son. But while we disparage wicked Cain, we are prone to forget that 3 out of 4 of that first family were good people.

Probably no one would question that the majority of Americans are good people. But attention has been focused on the evil minority for so long that the whole world tends to see nothing else.

Americans set a precedent when they reserved land for the aborigines, and took care of them at government expense. Traditionally, victors either annihilated, enslaved, or banished a vanquished people.

Those who decry the "cruel" treatment of American Indians err on several counts. Primarily they overlook a basic law of nature: What one does not use, one must lose.

The Indians were not developing this great land. They did not "subdue it" nor exercise "dominion" over it. And the tribes warred against each other far more cruelly than the pioneers ever warred against them.

Indians are free to continue in their traditional culture—as long as they are peaceable—or leave the reservations and join the constantly changing pattern of American life.

At the end of World War I, the U.S. sought no spoils for their tremendous contribution to the allied cause.

At the end of W. W. II, Germany and Japan were in shambles. Now they are reported to have the soundest economies in the world. Why? Because instead of spoiling their enemies, generous Americans gave a helping hand to two thrifty, hardworking nations.

America has contributed more to the spiritual, physical, and material welfare of the world than any other nation in recorded history. And why not? We have collected the "cream" from every nation on earth.

Granted, lawless people have always been a part of America. And if we refuse to deal with them as our fathers did, we must suffer the consequences. But in spite of the Eldridge Cleavers, Timothy Learys, and Jane Fondas, America is still the best country in the world.

If a minority of people fortunate enough to be born here, or a few immigrants privileged to become citizens can't appreciate this "great, free land," it's gratifying that strangers can.

Busy Day Due
Here Next Sat.

Most drivers have experienced the unsettling "near miss" of following a bike rider down the street.

Canyon's Chamber of Commerce is hoping to educate bike riders and at the same time draw people to Canyon during a day-long rodeo and race Saturday.

Beginning Saturday morning on the First National Bank parking lot, youngsters and adults of all ages will gather for the bike safety rodeo.

According to chairman Cary Magness, each person who wants to enter the rodeo should pick up a packet that contains the rules, a written test (plus the answers), a bike inspection test, a parental consent form, and general information about the rodeo. These packets are available at five businesses in Canyon.

The rodeo begins at 9 a.m., and again is open to all ages. A three-speed bike will be given away at an awards ceremony late Saturday afternoon. And ribbons will be presented to winners.

At 2 p.m. bike races will be held around the inside street of the downtown square.

Prizes up to $150 in gift certificates will be given to winners in different classes. Kids does must be 8 years old to enter the youngest division, and the open class will be for those folks over 18.

In other words, it is going to be a day for kids of all ages. And in addition to having a good time, winning some nice gifts, and getting a physical workout, the bike riders should come away from the day knowing lots more about bike safety.

That's the purpose of the rodeo, and from the enthusiasm shown by the kids, I believe it will be a busy day in Canyon.

I urge you to gather up the family, bring them to town for a good ole fashioned Saturday, enjoy your neighbors, watch the fun, and learn more about your hometown.

Passing Buck
All Way Back

By CARROLL WILSON

Computers, exalted as the answer to man's slowness, can solve a problem in a picosecond. The whirring, buzzing machines are reputed to have streamlined businesses and brought about untold economies and conveniences for the consumer.

Now, with the universality of the computer paired with the universality of credit buying, the computer has gained infamy as the cause of a lot that is wrong. Who was it that said "The buck stops here"? It must have been a computer.

Take the case of poor Consumer Charlie.

Charlie got his bank statement the other day and began the monthly routine of checking his figures against those produced by his bank's bookkeeping department.

Now, Charlie is a fairly fastidious chap and when he found a 50-cent error in his figures, he frantically flipped back through his checks, the banks figures and his own figures.

After working three days and three nights on his checkbook, Charlie, his eyes half-opened and red and the veins in his neck pulsating wildly, stalked into his bank, plopped down his checkbook and the bank's balance sheet and demanded an answer.

"I'm sure there's nothing wrong in our books," grinned the slick young man behind the counter.

And, therein, Charlie discovered the first rule of computerism: the computer is never wrong. Therefore, the bank's books are never wrong. Therefore, the mistake must be Charlie's.

After a three-hour investigation, during which Charlie collapsed from nervous exhaustion, the slick banker returned and grinned down at Charlie's immobile body on the floor: "You're right," he said. "The computer made a mistake."

Had Charlie been conscious, he would have learned the second tenet of computerism: If something goes wrong, blame it on the computer. After all, who can talk to a computer?

Charlie's story isn't unique. More and more, the front office which has contact with the consumer has learned that the easiest answer to give when something goes wrong is simply this: "The computer made the mistake. Sorry."

What could be more frustrating?

When a clerk makes an error, the customer can vent his spleen in the usual verbal manner.

What can you do to a computer? Kick it?

The simple fact is that computers rarely make mistakes. But, people who tell the computers what to think, how to think and what to think with make mistakes.

And, those are the people you can vent your spleen on.

Regional planning commissions have emerged in this state to have more power than I think many of the people who advocated them several years ago would have dreamed of.

The Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, for example, is liaison between the local governmental units and the federal government or state government.

Their basic function is to be planning, but the PRPC also has the power to recommend or not recommend certain projects for local government which require federal funding.

And, in four years' time, the PRPC has grown from a one-man operation to one involving a large staff and budget.

Pat Stephens, an instructor in government at West Texas State University returned last week from the 7th Annual Governor's Workshop on Intergovernmental Relations and Regional Planning.

The general feeling Stephens returned to Canyon with is that it is the desire of the federal government to place more emphasis or strengthen the state government and regional planning commission roles in doling out federal funds.

They would like to see more requests routed through the regional planning commissions and the states.

Stephens also learned of a federally-established multi-state regional planning commission.

For example, a planning commission has been established for the Southwestern states at the federal level to coordinate states' requests.

With the squeeze on money for towns, cities and counties throughout the country, the importance of attracting federal money is increasing by leaps and bounds.

It's not hard to see in the not-

Tower Blasts Ramsey Clark
During Stop In Randall Co.

U.S. Senator John Tower visited Randall County Thursday afternoon, the second stop on his current three-day, 19-city reelection tour.

The Senator, his wife and three young daughters were greeted by more than 100 apparent supporters who gathered at Tradewinds Airport under overcast and threatening skies. The fact that the red, white and blue plane was some thirty minutes late in arriving did not seem to dismay the balloon and placard waving throng. As they waited behind a hangar listening to music offered by a small band, the patient group several times broke into a chant. "Six more years," the words erupted.

When the small plane taxied to a point near the crowd, enthusiasm grew stronger. When the Senator and his family stepped to the asphalt runway, they were met with a rousing cheer.

After an introduction by Ed Carter of Austin, a long-time Democrat and former ambassador, Tower took to the microphone atop the bed of a banner decked truck. He wasted no time in getting around to his subject matter.

The Republican veteran lashed out at former attorney general Ramsey Clark, attacking statements made during a recent Clark visit to Hanoi. "I have no sympathy for anyone who puts the welfare of draft dodgers hiding out in Canada above the welfare of prisoners of war in North Vietnam," Tower told the cheering audience.

He took issue with all who criticize the U.S. military and said he did not want the support of anyone who visited and agreed with this country's enemies.

In an interview before taking the speaker's stand, Tower termed the sale of wheat to Russia and Red China a "possible boom" to the American farmer. He admitted that the transaction was being criticized and that there was a remote possibility that the deal might backfire in the same manner as did the sale of scrap material to Japan before World War II. "But," the Senator added, "I do not think it will be dangerous."

During the several introductions which preceded the talk by Tower, other members of the family were presented corsages by Amarillo City Commissioner Windy Nicklaus, substituting for Mayor Ray Value. At that time, Mrs. Tower and children voiced appreciation for the weather which for a time had threatened to mar the rally. They said their first stop, in Dallas, had been uncomfortably hot and humid.

At one point in the ceremony, when the crowd gave forth with the "Six more years" chant, Mrs. Tower looked up and in a soft voice as if talking to herself said, "Six more years and they'll have to carry me up to the platform."

The tour was to end Saturday evening in Waco.

Friendship Remembered

Mr. Troy Martin
Editor, Canyon News

I want to thank you, Troy Martin, for giving me the privilege, shortly after we moved to this city, of writing a series of articles on the pioneers of this community. You told me then that to do so would probably be an excellent opportunity to make good and lasting friends. It was. Among these friends was the late and lovely Mrs. Gordon-Cumming.

I was on my way to the airport to fly to San Diego when I learned of the passing of this dear lady. We had had a rain storm the previous night and as I looked down on the huge bubbling thunder heads a few moments later, I thought of a sunny afternoon last summer when my telephone rang and Mrs. Gordon-Cumming said, "Glenna, there's an unusual cloud in the sky and I thought you might enjoy seeing it."

Because of trees and houses around my place I jumped in my car and drove up the hill to glimpse the cloud. There it was, set apart from the rest like a giant swirl of ice cream reluctant to melt. A beautiful spectacle I shall always remember because I had a thoughtful friend.

At a tea given in honor of her 94th birthday, "Aunt Molly" looked as if she had stepped from the latest fashion sheet, but the rugged pioneer whispered after my compliments, "Honey, I've a bit of a catch in my side today. You see, I decided to sweep a few cob webs from my ceilings this week."

So it is I think of her today—sharing blessings or sweeping down cobwebs and I keep praying that God will never throw away her pattern.

Thanks again to you and yours
With all sincerity,
Glenna Wilson

Cannon Logic Questioned

Dear Sir:

I am writing in reference to several aspects of Thomas Cannon's letter to the editor in the September 10 Sunday News.

Mr. Cannon takes issue with the "Our World" comment that Bible teaching is forbidden on the college campus. The column stated "Bible reading has been forbidden in public classrooms." Any high school student knows the difference between college campus and public schools (elementary, junior high, and high school).

Mr. Cannon was incensed enough to conduct a poll of college professors to see if liberals retaliate against non-concurring students. Herein was his error: He asked the teachers, not the students. What teacher would admit to retaliation? And if a teacher will not admit to retaliation, will he truthfully admit to having had prejudiced teachers in his own education? (Students under pressure for passing grades will not readily admit the truth, either.)

This is not the first time Mr. Cannon has made reference to the "Our World" column in your fine paper. It seems to be one of his favorite subjects. My question is, If he can't stand the column, why does he read it?

Ann Brown's avid readers enjoy his illogical letters and "free advertising" for the "Our World" column. Keep it up, Tom!

Sincerely,

Randall County, according to Price, is one of the strongest Republican counties in the state, ranking about eighth.

Tuesday's gathering of Democrats will also be the second convention for their party. The first was held in mid-June and was for the purpose of selecting delegates for the national convention.

The upcoming state gathering will be headed by Dolph Briscoe, Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

According to Randall County party chairman Marion Bruce, about 17 delegates are to make the trip. The county leader said his group was allowed 22 votes

City Library To Begin Book Exchange

A paperback book exchange program will be initiated in the near future through Canyon's city library.

Mrs. Don Max Vars of the library board said Friday Canyon men's clubs are to collect paperbacks during a book drive yet to be scheduled.

Members of local women's clubs have pledged they will help distribute the books at intervals to patients at Nebbett Hospital, residents of LaCasa Nursing Home and inmates at the County Jail.

In addition, local residents will be free to go to the library and exchange paperbacks for unread ones.

"We hope to keep a large enough supply so people who want to can take as many as 10 books in exchange," she said.

Out side of a goal to stimulate interest in reading in the city, the library board hopes to introduce more residents to what the public library has to offer through the exchange program.

Library board members at a meeting earlier last week passed a resolution asking the city commission to study the feasibility of relocating the library from its current World War II-vintage barracks into the old Moses store in downtown Canyon.

but would only be able to count those in attendance. This, he said, was because a unit vote by the delegation was not allowed.

When asked if changes in party policy were expected to be made, Bruce replied, "You bet. I sure hope so." He went further by saying the party had no real system due to past governors not taking part in party politics. Bruce added that "We are operating in a vacuum handed down by McGovern rules."

A list of convention speakers was not available from county leaders late this week.

Democrats planning to make the trip to Austin include E.E. Elliott, George Dowlen, Bennie Turner, Mrs. Mary Lamb and Roberta Hicks, all of Canyon. Roberta Hicks is a candidate for state committeewoman.

Amarillo residents include Wayne Bagley, Wayne Dammier, T.A. Serrurier, David Schultz, Ed Fletcher, Mrs. Willie Fletcher, Marion Bruce, Mrs. Louis Evans Bruce and Jim McNeese.

Cannon Trains At West Point

Cadet Michael W. Cannon, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Cannon, Jr., 1208 Creekmere, completed summer training on Aug. 27 at Camp Buckner on the reservation of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

The seven-week program was designed to acquaint West Point third classmen with all equipment and weapons used at platoon and company level in army combat and support units.

Others, whose addresses were not provided, include Andrea Green, Bob McClendon and Richard Martin.

A list of Republicans attending their convention was not made available.

New Camp Fire Groups Formed

Camp Fire Girls representatives last week distributed brochures to girls at Rex Reeves Elementary School. They contained forms to be filled out by interested prospects or their mothers and returned to school.

New Camp Fire groups are being formed, and anyone desiring information may contact Mrs. Sam Bybee at 622-1471 or the Council office at 373-7922.

Leaders for several age groups of Camp Fire Girls are needed now. The Council provides a training session for new leaders in October and will give continuous help throughout the year.

Xi Kappa Zeta Plans Pageant

Xi Kappa Zeta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held their first regular meeting of the season in the home of Mrs. Herbert Kuhlman, president, southeast of Canyon. Regular business included a discussion of the area convention to be held at Borger on October 14 and 15.

Arrangements were discussed for the Little Miss Canyon Pageant on Oct. 21 at the Canyon Senior High School. The committee working on the pageant consists of Miss Virginia Rosister, chairman, Mrs. Tommy Hunter, Miss Betty Sue Patterson, and Mrs. Bill Thomas.

Mrs. Kuhlman presented an inspirational program, "What Is Life?" following the business meeting. Refreshments were served, and final gifts were exchanged by this year's Beta Buddies and new names were drawn.

Members in attendance were Mrs. Robert Brotherton, Miss Billie Bee Flesher, Mrs. Tim Goodwin, Mrs. Tommy Hunter, Mrs. Jim Irwin, Mrs. Wilton Manley, Miss Betty Sue Patterson, Mrs. Charles Peckenaugh, Mrs. David Pulley, Mrs. Johnny Robinson, Mrs. Herbert Stroud, Mrs. Lewis Wygant, Mrs. Bill Thomas, and the hostess.

Earlier in the day Thursday, The News found that David Matthis, a professor in the government department, was planning to attend the Democratic state convention.

Contacted at home Thursday evening, Matthis confirmed that he would attend the convention. He said he would be absent from classes on Monday and Tuesday.

Matthis said "it was okay with the administration" because he had made arrangements to have his classes taught.

Before noon on Friday, Todd had received Malzahn's answering letter.

The letter states, in part: "When you signed the Employment Agreement with West Texas State University for 1972-73, you accepted the professional responsibility of meeting and teaching all of your classes when and where scheduled. According to the best information at my disposal there are three reasons of official acceptability by the State of Texas for not fulfilling that responsibility. The first is illness for which one accrues sick leave; the second, accomplishing University business; and the third, attending professional meetings directly related to one's discipline. Obviously, neither of the last two are official unless done with prior administrative approval."

"Matters that are not within these three categories are personal and are not official. For a faculty member to accept voluntarily and without prior discussion with his department head personal responsibilities that keep him from his classroom

Funds Sought For "Slim" Johnston Memorial

Fund-raisers for a memorial to the late L. S. "Slim" Johnston said last week they need more money to erect a proper memorial to the long-time Randall County Sheriff.

U.G. Berry, who is heading the campaign fund, said only $164 has been collected so far in efforts to raise enough money to have an oil portrait of Johnston painted and hung in the courthouse.

The campaign was begun several weeks ago by the County Democratic Executive Committee.

Money can be donated to special accounts established at West Texas State Bank and First National Bank in Canyon, Western National Bank, First National Bank and Bank of the Southwest in Amarillo.

Hunters Need New License

Hunting season has begun in Randall County and Justice of the Peace W.A. "Bill" Wilson warned local hunters that their hunting and fishing licenses expired Aug. 31.

"Those who haven't secured another license should do so," Wilson said, "because the fine for being without one is up to $100."

Stanley McDonough of the Texas Parks and Wildlife office said dove season continues in the county through Oct. 14.

At 1:15 p.m. Friday, Todd met with Malzahn and Green to further discuss the matter.

"I'm going to the convention," Todd told The News following the meeting.

Todd said he was told by Malzahn that the university had begun, as a result of his request, a new "personal leave" policy, which would cover cases such as his.

He was also told it would be alright to have the university's other string instructor take his two Monday classes and to postpone his Tuesday private lessons.

"I think this is a real benefit for the future," Todd said. "This will set a precedent."

At the moment, says Louder, the final figure could fall anywhere within those estimates . . . or it could be more or less.

The whole thing is a matter of no one knowing anything for sure and with the amount of confusion connected with the proposal, it may be a long, long time before anybody knows for sure.

It was the final blow for Canyon as only 13 seconds remained in the game.

The Eagles racked up 171 yards total net rushing for the evening with 83 yards of that in the air.

Lair and Moore attempted 12 passes.

Leading Eagle rusher was Hanson with 59 net yards. Moore racked up a net total of 28 yards.

The Eagles were penalized 60 yards during the game.

Borger tallied 178 yards during the outing and made none of them in the passing department.

Gray tallied 118 yards during his mid-line pounding runs against Canyon.

The Bulldogs were penalized only 10 yards during the game.

Borger led in the number of first downs with 10 while Canyon posted 8.

The Eagles meet Caprock's Longhorns in action at 8 p.m. next Friday at Bivins Memorial Stadium in Amarillo.

Her 1,000th quilt for Assembly of God Church missions has just been stitched by Mrs. Dora Lane, 1705 3rd Ave. This one, queen-sized, was intended as a gift for the Rev. and Mrs. A.J. Pettit, pastor and his wife of the Canyon church.

1,000th Quilt Stitched by Elderly Seamstress

The winter of 66-67 was an unusually severe one in Arizona. The plight of Indiana, caught without fuel, food, and warm clothing, was telegraphed through missionary channels to the Assembly of God Church in Canyon.

Mrs. Dora Lane, age 82, decided to do something about it. Setting up her little portable sewing machine, she began stitching quilts and has been producing three or four a week ever since.

A few days ago, Mrs. Lane completed her 1,000th quilt. A colorful, queen-sized patchwork of bright cotton squares, it will be a gift for Rev. and Mrs. A.J. Pettit who have been close friends for many years.

"The missionaries have come to count on quilts from the Assembly of God Church in Canyon," said the Rev. A.J. Pettit. "They like to give them at Christmas time to the needy families in their missions." The quilts now go out to missions in New Mexico as well as Arizona, and also to children's orphanages in California.

As the fame of Mrs. Lane's quilts has spread in her church's mission circles, donors from as far away as Tennessee send scraps and materials for her to use. Women in Canyon give old sheets to be used as backing for the tops, and they are lined in calico-type prints.

Never a scrap is wasted—she varies the pattern according to the size of the pieces. Some, which she calls "string quilts," are fashioned of narrow strips pieced into blocks.

At the age of 88, Mrs. Lane does all the stitching without benefit of eyeglasses. Women in her church help with the tacking.

"I've had a busy life," says the diminutive, white-haired, seamstress, who for 67 years was a traveling evangelist in the Assembly of God Church and raised seven children besides. After a stroke which impaired her health somewhat, she decided on retirement in Canyon to be near friends.

Mrs. Lane has no intention of resting on her laurels. She is now beginning quilt No. 1001.

Passons, who came to WTSU from Wyoming, said that his former resident state did not certify officers on the basis of school hours and that Texas may not accept his previous school studies. "Because we are short-handed, myself and Hooper will miss this school and attend the next one," the chief added.

When asked about the Metro Unit, Passons was quick to say that he thought the cooperative operation was a good idea. "We will be back in it if our manpower strength ever permits," he said.

The chief admitted that he had not had much experience with the controversial unit, having attended only three meetings. He did say that in some instances he knew that his department had been helped by the inter-agency association. He said he thought the unit's most helpful function was in stopping the flow of drugs. This, Passons claimed, was made possible because of the unit's authority to cross from one jurisdiction area into another.

Former Metro officer Morgan has been assigned to investigate thefts, burglaries and other major crimes which occur on the campus.

Morgan and Hooper are currently enrolled at the university and are working on their degrees. Grantham and Summar were not able to register for this semester due to their being away for the six-week police school period.

4-H Officers Elected

A "TEXAS" SIZED DISPLAY HAS been on 6 month display at the Philadelphia Bulletin's newspaper office. The travel display has featured giant black and white photographs from "TEXAS" by Andy Hester of the WTSU staff.

The musical drama story, which was mounted and sent to Philadelphia by the "TEXAS" staff, has just been returned.

TWO UMBRELLAS WERE CARRIED at the "Don't Rain On My Parade" parade Thursday preceding the Olympia Brass Band Concert. One of the two umbrella carriers danced as the band traveled down the streets close to the university campus. The cloudy sky had seen the handbills and bowed to the fascinating group from New Orleans... for there was no rain.

Just as the Pied Piper had done in days of old, the Olympia Brass Band picked up groups of 25, then 50, then 100 and more during the short parade going to the successful concert in the Activities Center.

THE AUDIENCE APPRAISED the glittering stars thrown against the black velvet of the night during the "Evening of Dance" in the Amphitheatre last weekend.

Over 1000 persons saw the enjoyable dance variety show in the canyon during the two-day stand.

"Shaft", the dance number choreographed by Rene Clemente, was given a standing ovation, upon its conclusion.

Certainly we will see more evenings of dance in the future, because of the success of this entertaining evening.

A SHOWER OF STARS will be guest artists at THE TRI-STATE FAIR next week.

Performances begin September 18-19 with the Roy Clark Show. Appearing with Clark will be Archie Campbell, Jody Miller, and the Compton Brothers.

The Festival of Music is next, September 20-21 with Chet Atkins, Floyd Cramer, and Boots Randolph. I understand from personal friends that the leader of the "TEXAS" orchestra, Trisha Faubian, will be performing with several Amarillo musicians during this portion of the show.

The closing days of the fair, September 22-23 will feature the always successful Charley Pride Show with Johnny Duncan, the Pridemans, the North Door Singers, and Alex Houston & Elmer.

Tickets are on sale at Sears.

"Texas" Founder Mrs. Harper Honored by DAR

Mrs. Margaret Harper, founder of Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, Inc., was singled out for special recognition by Los Ciboleros Chapter of DAR in Hereford at intermission of the "TEXAS" production on the evening of Aug. 22.

At that time Mrs. Earl Holt, acting regent of the Hereford chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution presented Mrs. Harper with a plaque in recognition of her contribution to society in preserving the culture and history of the Panhandle area.

The Texas-shaped plaque is inscribed "Mrs. Ples (Margaret) Harper - Founder of Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, Inc. In appreciation of your great work bringing your dream of "TEXAS" into a reality, and preserving the colorful history of the Panhandle area for posterity. - Los Ciboleros Chapter, DAR, July 4, 1972, Hereford, Texas."

The plaque presentation, a project connected with the Bi-Centennial Commission of Texas and the Bi-Centennial committee of the Hereford DAR chapter, was made last year to Lawrence Welk in recognition of his patriotic album, according to Mrs. Jo Reinauer, chairman.

Mrs. Harper, now public relations director for "Texas," has seen the production grow into one of the nation's star tourist attractions, drawing 82,228 persons this season.

London Tour Is Planned

The West Texas State University speech department will again sponsor a theatre tour — this time to London for two weeks, Dec. 26 - Jan. 9.

A $535 package includes roundtrip air fare via Pan American Airways from Amarillo; 13 nights at the Bedford Corners Hotel (based on two to a room and including breakfast and all service and taxes); transfers to and from the airport and land transportation while in England.

The fee also covers seven theater tickets, including those to the musical production of "Gone with the Wind" and the National Shakespearean Theatre.

Professional Travel Services, the agency handling the tour, will also provide the full services of an escort through the London visit.

The tour is contingent upon enlisting at least 15 persons, says Masquers sponsor, James Kemmerling of the WTSU speech faculty.

Interested persons must file a $50 deposit by Oct. 1 with the WTSU speech department, Kemmerling says. Payment deadline for the remainder is Nov. 20.

Canyon Youth Takes District F.F.A. Office

A 15-year-old Canyon youth has been elected to the office of Sentinel by the Amarillo District of the Future Farmers of America.

David Hinders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Hinders who farm southeast of Canyon, was elected in competition with candidates from 11 other schools in the Panhandle.

Jim Walker, agriculture teacher and sponsor of the Canyon High School F. F. A. Chapter, said the election was a distinct honor for any youngster, but even more so for a sophomore. The district offices are usually filled by senior students.

Young Hinders, whose primary farm project is the raising of his five dairy cows, said he will run for a district office again next year, possibly that of the president. He also expects to seek a regional office in the future.

He was president of the Canyon chapter's "Green Hand" group, first year agriculture students, last year and was an entrant in the state F. F. A. dairy judging contest.

Of the young farmer who one day hopes to own at least 100 dairy cows, instructor Walker said "Our goal for 1975 is that David become the state president."

17 Accidents Are Reported In August

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 17 accidents on rural highways in Randall County during the month of August, according to Sergeant Jack Crownover, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and 14 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first eight months of 1972 shows a total of 104 accidents, resulting in one person killed, and 66 persons injured.

Region 5 of the Texas Department of Public Safety shows a total in August, 1972 of 593 accidents resulting in 28 persons killed and 359 persons injured as compared to the same month in 1971 with 581 accidents resulting in 25 persons killed and 400 persons injured. This was 12 more accidents, three more fatalities and 41 less injured in 1972, at the same period of time.

The 28 deaths for the month of August 1972 occurred in the following counties: Castro, four; Palo Pinto, three; Lubbock, Carson, Deaf Smith, and Gray, two each; Clay, Cochran, Hale, Haskell, Lamb, Lynn, Montague, Parker, Stonewall, Wichita, Wise, Yoakum, and Briscoe, one each.

Projects Set By Book Club

The Woman's Book Club of Canyon met Wednesday, Sept. 13, in the home of Mrs. Charles Harter, 1404 Creekmore.

Mrs. Lige Frieze reviewed the book, "Invitation to Joy" by Elinor Whitney.

During a short business session, members voted to support "Meals on Wheels" and the "Community Opportunity Plan, Inc." Members received new yearbooks.

Members of the executive committee served refreshments following adjournment of the meeting.

News Brief

The annual meeting of the Panhandle District Medical Society will attract doctors from four states when it convenes at the Quality Motel in Amarillo on Saturday, Sept. 23. At that time Dr. Charles Nester of Canyon will turn over his office as vice-counselor to the Texas Medical Association to a new incumbent.

Constitution Week Begins Today

Many Problems Could Have Cropped Up In Constitution

By JIM SANDS

Today through September 23 is "Constitution Week." It has been so designated by the Congress and the President of the United States and by governors and mayors all across the country.

The Constitution of the United States was the offspring of dreams and work by many early day patriots and has been called the most workable plan for government ever known to man. In many instances individuals and groups have disagreed with either the Constitution or with the interpretation of it as handed down by the United States Supreme Court.

There was a time, or several times, when the "great paper" might have been questioned but apparently was not. According to Dr. Roy Thoman, Associate Professor of Government at West Texas State University, the original wording could have resulted in four independent countries on the East Coast of what is now the United States of America.

An original Constitutional Convention requirement was that to become adopted, it had to be ratified by at least nine states. This would have been a majority at the time. It was not required that the other young states ratify the Constitution or that they join the Union. Therefore, says Dr. Thoman, there very well could have been at least three other independent countries growing up alongside the newly formed United States. He gave as an example, the possibility that there could have been the nation of Rhode Island had that then independent territory chosen not to join its neighbors.

The State of Texas, as we know it now, was after winning its independence from Mexico, such an independent nation. Texas chose to become a state just in time to leave it with other southern states.

Another provision in the Constitution has caused many persons to be led into the belief that the southern states that left the Union were later readmitted. By law, no state was required to ratify the Constitution and join the Union . . . but neither could a state, once making that move, ever leave the Union. According to the wording of the Constitution, the Confederate States were never out of the Union, therefore they could not and need not be reinstated. There was a period, according to Dr. Thoman, that the rebel states lost many of the privileges that went with being a part of the Union. "It was really a period of punishment," said Dr. Thoman. The punishment period ended in time but not through "readmission."

While the Constitution has seldom been changed and is today interpreted to the letter in matters of law, there are several portions that have died because of changing times or because of changes in other laws or Constitutional Amendments. One such portion deals with the importation of slaves. The law was never changed or deleted but simply became obsolete when slavery in this country was abolished.

And, apparently, not too much thought was given to women back in the early days of amending the Constitution. Negroes were given the right to vote 50 years before the first woman was to cast a ballot. And confusing wording in the 15th Amendment of 1870, which appeared to give even women that right, was never really questioned to the extent that it would be in the "lib" age of today.

According to the Constitution, the 14th Amendment decreed that all Negroes, both men and women, including ex-slaves, be made citizens of the United States.

In section one of the 15th Amendment, it is stated that the right of citizens to vote would not be denied or abridged by the United States or a state because of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Since women somehow considered themselves "citizens," some thought that at last they had won their place at the polls. This did not prove to be the case, even for Negro women who by the earlier 14th Amendment had been elevated to citizen status.

All women, white and black, lost the right to vote when a U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the framers of the Amendment had intended the word "citizen" to mean only the male of the species.

According to latter day students of the Constitution, the word "male" should have been inserted originally or else the Amendment should have been amended if women were to be held back from the voting places. One such authority on the subject said it would appear that women were at the time so obscure that the lawmakers simply forgot to exclude them. That surely would never happen today. At least not for long.

Other portions of the law of this country have been questioned with at least one young man claiming that the 13th Amendment was being violated by use of the military draft. The courts ruled that while servitude, as such, was unconstitutional, the nation's defense against its enemy took priority. And down through history, the draft has been the only exception made in regard to the amendment barring any form of slavery.

It has been said that the 18th Amendment, the one closing down the flow of alcoholic beverages, came closest to being in violation of the "spirit of the Constitution." And that one did not last too long.

The repeal of the 18th Amendment is standing proof that bad laws may be removed, even if not always as easily as they are made. One source with knowledge of the Constitution and how it works claims that too often individuals and groups complain about laws when they really should be working to promote new and better ones. One example given was the law dealing with the charging of persons with treason.

The law governing treason is tough, making it all but impossible to gain a conviction. And this is especially true in times of "legal peace" when no war is declared. It has been suggested by some that effort should be made to change the law to make such convictions easier.

Possibly the founding fathers of this country foresaw some of the future problems and made available more than one way to handle a situation. This was true of the laws relating to treason.

Few persons realize that several U. S. Citizens who were selling secret information during and after World War II were put to death . . . not for treason . . . but instead under the provisions set aside to deal with espionage. After all, they were passing information along to our friends, not our enemies. They may have been guilty of treason but the matter was handled in an entirely different light.

Again, the Constitution certainly has not been the total answer to each and every problem that has arisen in this country since 1787 but it does have a pretty good batting average. And like in any game, substitutions may be made from time to time to improve the team.

The Olympia Brass Band played and the crowd swayed behind as they paraded through the West Texas State University campus Thursday night. Young and old alike joined the parade to its culmination at the activities center.

The Music To Move Any Man

If there is music which can move men's souls, it must be the music of New Orleans.

And, if there was anybody in Canyon Thursday night who could keep their toes from tapping, their bodies from swaying or their hands from clapping, then they weren't at 4th Ave. and 24th Street for a first-of-its-kind concert here.

Dejan's Olympia Brass Band played the kind of music you can't sit still and listen to.

And, the way they give a concert doesn't allow you to sit, either.

It's not meditative music and it's not music for fireside reading.

It's music of rejoicing, of happiness. It makes you want to shout.

It was a crowd of young and old that gathered on the edge of the West Texas State University campus Thursday night at dusk, and they waited impatiently for 8 o'clock to arrive.

With little fanfare at 8, Allan Jaffe picked up his battered and beaten bass horn, slipped it over his shoulders and the Olympia Brass Band began to roll. Heading east on 4th Avenue, the band was led by two old gentlemen decked out in black suits. A bright red and orange banner draped across the front of one of the leaders and he carried a multicolored parasol.

And, the band played. People standing on the sidewalks along 4th joined the growing crowd which had fallen in behind the 10-member ensemble as they blared Dixieland from their instruments and jived down the middle of the street.

One young man, apparently familiar with the traditions surrounding brass bands in New Orleans, opened his umbrella and rocked in time with the music beside the band.

It was a good night for a parade, and students, disturbed by the music as the band paraded by dormitories, rushed downstairs to join the throng.

Heading down 26th street, the band picked up more followers as they broke into tune after tune, amid claps and cheers from the paraders.

The parade portion of the Olympia Band's program ended as, like the Pied Piper of old, they marched into the WTSU activities center with a long stream of followers behind.

The Olympia Brass Band hails from New Orleans where it is the only brass band still playing with regular personnel. The band has played at Carnegie Hall and is featured annually at the Smithsonian Institution Festival in Washington, D.C. The troupe also plays and parades each year for the Sugar Bowl and Super Bowl games.

The band represented the United States at the Olympic Games in Mexico City in 1968 and in Berlin at the International Volkfest. They have been on the bill at the Newport and Monterey Jazz Festivals.

Coach Enthusiastic About Young Cross-Country Team

West Texas State University's young but experienced cross-country team opens its season Thursday against Texas Tech, Lubbock Christian College and Wayland Baptist College in Plainview.

The team, coached by Bob Kitchens, enters the meet as defending champion. WTSU has won the meet for the last two years, but this year will not have that opportunity since team points will not be awarded.

Practice for the team began recently on the campus, and team members put in 90 miles of running.

Kitchens is enthusiastic about his team this fall and its opportunity to place well in the Missouri Valley Conference title race.

One reason for this enthusiasm:

"On the first day they were here we ran a four-mile time trial," Kitchens said. "Last year the race was won by a guy who ran it in 22:19."

This year, Kitchens' top runner made the four-mile run in 20:03. His slowest runner made it in 22:45.

"This is the best cross-country team I've ever had," Kitchens said. "This year I have the only people I've ever had that I could really call a cross-country team."

The nucleus of this year's team consists of last year's standout runner Jim Hogan, a Buffalo, N.Y., senior, and two freshmen.

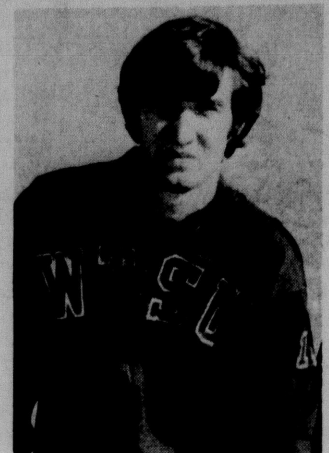

Hogan holds the meet record for the Plainview tournament coming up later this week.

The freshmen are two young men who attended the same high school in New York as Hogan.

"Larry Lane, a freshman from Depew, N.Y., will be a tremendous runner," Kitchens said. "He has a lot of power and ran a 9:19 for the two-mile in high school. I look for him to be a great runner."

Another freshman is Wally Nowicki, who pulled a 4:25 mile and 9:37 two-mile in high school. "Wally has lots of talent, too," Kitchens said. "Both these boys are just 17 years old, but they both know the sport."

Jim Hogan

Kitchens is also pleased with two other runners who tried out and made the team unrecruited.

Lindsey Snodgrass, a freshman from Dell City, broke a bone in his leg last summer and will be out of play for about two weeks. Kitchens said Snodgrass "has lots of character and determination."

The other freshman expected to help round out the squad is Robert McElroy of Crowell, who as a senior in high school ran a 4:57 mile.

Kitchens has room for enthusiasm with his team. Last year, the WTSU squad finished last in the MVC meet to decide the conference championship.

The coach expects to do much better this fall.

But, before that meet, the WTSU runners meet a host of other competitors.

Their schedule includes:

Sept. 30—Eastern New Mexico Invitational at Portales. Included in the meet will be Texas Tech, New Mexico State, South Plains Junior College and others on a four-mile course.

Oct. 7—WTSU Invitational. Entries are not scheduled yet.

Oct. 14—Portales meet. Included in the six-mile run will be teams from Eastern New Mexico University, and University of Texas at El Paso, the defending NCAA cross-country champions.

Oct. 21—Dual meet with Texas Tech over a four-mile course.

Oct. 28—A return to Portales for a 6-mile run against ENMU and the University of New Mexico.

Nov. 4—The Missouri Valley Conference championship meet at Peoria, Ill. The one-day meet will cover five miles.

Counties Oppose Proposals

County Judge Woody Pond returned from Amarillo this week with a new title and an armload of resolutions to carry to Austin next month, one of which strongly opposes recommendations to change much of the Texas court structure proposed by the Texas Supreme Court chief justice.

Pond was elected president of the Panhandle County Judges and Commissioners Association last week and was handed nine resolutions passed by that body to present to the state association when it meets in early October.

The most far-reaching resolution passed by the association—which includes Randall County's commissioners—opposes proposals for court changes by the Chief Justice's Task Force for Court Improvement.

Specifically attacked in the resolution is the task force's recommendation that certain county-level elected offices and courts be abolished, that all judges and justices below district level be licensed to practice law, and that the legislature would have increased authority to provide for the selection rather than election of sheriffs, county attorneys, and county clerks.

The task force's recommendations were made public in The Canyon News several weeks ago. "We believe this is a danger and a threat to local government," the resolution states.

Four resolutions which were presented for adoption at the association meeting by Randall County delegates were passed.

They include a resolution calling for the granting of homestead exemptions to single as well as married persons, a resolution opposing the establishment of district appraisal centers for taxing entities, a resolution concerning delinquent tax receipts, and a resolution opposing the establishment of regional data processing centers to service taxing jurisdictions.

In the resolution expressing opposition to the Chief Justice's Task Force findings, the commissioners said they are against "any changes in our state constitution that would take away from the local people their constitutional right to elect any and all local county officials and judges which they now have and strongly oppose the requirement that judges below the level of district judge be required to be licensed to practice law."

Jowell 4-H Elects Officers

Plans for the coming year and election of new officers were in the order of business at the first fall meeting of the Jowell 4-H Club at the Jowell School House on Friday, Sept. 1. James Irlbeck, outgoing president, was the presiding officer.

New officers elected are as follows: president, Ronda Davis; vice president, Greg Henders;

secretary-treasurer, Gary Henders; reporter, Janie Irlbeck; photographer, Neal Henders; council delegate, Shawn Hall; adult leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Findley.

The club voted to pick up beer cans along country roads for a club project.

Mrs. Walter Cranmer served refreshments to the 11 members.

"THE LADY BUGS" WILL HAVE a booth at the Tri-State Fair this year and offer artistic hand painted and hand crafted items for sale.

The clever ladies include Mattie Moreland, Glenna Wilson, Mary Jo Hales, and Margaret Reid. The fair runs September 18 through the 23 and will have many booths of interest.

The Lady Bugs will have their goodies at reasonable prices. I understand, so plan to shop for Christmas a bit early.

These are very talented women in our community — so drop by to see them fair week.

FORMER WTSU STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT, Larry Elms has recently graduated from the University of Houston Law School and is now practicing in Lubbock.

The well liked and personable Elms is with Edwards and Associates with offices in downtown Lubbock.

His residence address is 119 Ave. X, Apt. 211 W. in Lubbock.

TRISHA FAUBIAN, another WTSU graduate, is also in Lubbock finishing graduate work in music. Trisha has headed the "TEXAS" orchestra for the past two seasons.

In case you would like to write her, her address is 3520 24th St., Lubbock, Tx.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY for 27 year old Bud Higginbotham was held recently at the home of the Dee Nix's.

Several close friends of the Higginbothams attended the chip & dip event — which was a surprise to the honoree. Those attending included the Gene Eades of Pampa, the D.J. Greenwoods III's, and the Gary Turners.

VISITING IN THE CITY RECENTLY was Mrs. Dale Knight, the former Fran Riney. The WTSU graduate now resides in Alexandria, Virginia.

Mrs. Knight plans to return to see more acquaintances at WTSU's Homecoming, October 13 and 14.

EVERYONE IS TALKING ABOUT THE NEW restaurant that will feature international cuisine as well as steaks. More on the opening and facilities as it becomes available.

IT IS A BIT DISCOURAGING to have five puppies to give away and narrow it down to only four — then have another dropped over your fence! I am here to tell you!

I feel that someone is reading this column, but perhaps not understanding the situation. No, I am not in the puppy raising or wholesale business — but do have some to give away!

Our new addition is a very cute male (black with brown) dachshund that looks to be a small sized one. He is really cute — besides he could have crawled in by mistake, I guess. If he's yours or you want him, let me know.

COMMUNITY CONCERT WORKERS are now combing the city selling memberships on the concert season.

If you are interested, and a worker has not contacted you, call Mrs. Gerald Schultz.

THE FIRST POTLUCK DINNER of the year will be hosted by the International Students Saturday evening at 7 p.m. at Dr. and Mrs. L.A. Blumer of 2606 Harmony in Amarillo.

Persons attending the food fare each bring a dish from their native land — and the result is delicious.

BLAINE PURCELL, son of Congressman Graham Purcell, was in the city this past weekend. Blaine, actually Dr. Purcell, is a recent graduate of Texas A & M's School of Veterinary Medicine. He is currently serving in the Green Berets.

While in the city, the Congressman's son visited the Palo Duro Canyon and enjoyed the "Evening of Dance" performed there this past weekend.

Blaine will be among the guests at his father's Appreciation Dinner held Saturday in the patio of the Amarillo Civic Center.

US Senator Lloyd Bentsen was the guest speaker, and the head table saw some 15 Texas Congressmen in attendance.

The patio was set in red, white and blue with geraniums and flags used in the decor. The setting there is beautiful with the lovely planters filled with flowers and the spotlighted fountain.

Cowboys Find New Home in 27-0 Win

Fourth quarters have broken and made the Happy Cowboys' season this fall.

After losing on a couple of fourth quarter fumbles last week, the Cowboys exploded in fourth quarter action Friday night to romp the New Home Leopards 27-0.

All of Happy's scoring came in the fourth stanza as the Cowboys took advantage of New Home fumbles and mistakes in the last 6 minutes of play.

Chris Pearson made three Happy scores on one, 24-, and 36-yard runs. Gregg Looney picked up another Cowboy touchdown with a six-yard run.

Scoring was rounded out by a Looney extra point conversion and a kick by Andy Hand.

"It was all defensive during the first three quarters," said Coach Robert Criswell. "We made a lot of mistakes and made a lot of fumbles."

In racking up their win, the Cowboys totalled 301 yard rushing compared to 148 tallied by the Leopards.

Happy made 17 first downs while New Home made 11.

Next opponent for the Cowboys is Whiteface at Whiteface next Friday night.

By MARY NEAL HENRY

HAPPY IS TO have a chance to organize a Cowbell Club. This is an organization which involves anyone who has an interest in or is just interested in cattle. Thirty-eight states have Cowbells — making it a national organization. Texas, one of the leading states in the cattle business, was the 36th to organize. Mrs. Betty Carruthers of Hereford is Texas State President. Anyone interested in the purpose and functions of Cowbells or interested in forming a Cowbell is invited to tea and coffee at Mrs. Dee Taylors' home at 302 N. Floyd in Happy on Wednesday, September 20th at 7:30 p.m.

PHYLLIS BRYAN WAS hostess to the Sunnyhill Home Demonstration Club on Thursday of last week. Roll call was answered with "My Greatest Resource." After the business meeting conducted by President Mrs. Ken Danner, Mrs. Becky Hall, Randall County Agent gave an interest program on "Resources — Key to Power." Coffee and donuts were served to members, Barbara Danner, Leona Henry, Mary Wilhelm and Lisa and Tresa, Gwen Tuck and Melissa, Jo Hand, Judy Shipman, Helen Bryan and Rowdy, myself and the hostess, Phyllis Bryan and guest, Mrs. Becky Hall.

JOYCE GAZZAWAY STONEBERG and June Gazzaway Preston were visitors in Happy on Saturday. Joyce flew in from Poquason, Virginia before Labor Day and has been visiting in Dallas with June and in Altus, Oklahoma, with her Dad, William Gazzaway. Joyce, June, and William (Bill) were dinner guests at Mrs. Edna Wilson's on Saturday and several called during the day to visit with Joyce. This was my second visit with Joyce in eighteen years and I really enjoyed it. Joyce has a son in college in Virginia and four other sons and a daughter, who is 14 years old (5 boys and one girl). Donald has recently retired from the service. Joyce's plans were to fly home on Monday.

HAPPY JUNIOR HIGH was clobbered by Claude last Thursday night at Happy. Let's don't even talk about it.

HAPPY COWBOYS ALSO lost to Claude the following night there. The score was something like 30 to 19. Johnny Payne, Chris Pearson and Greg Looney made the touchdowns and Mark Hargrave kicked the extra goal. At one time in the third quarter Happy led by one point. Stuart Tackitt was injured during the game when his right shoulder was knocked out of place. But his Mom "fixed" it. Stu was looking really fine at church by Sunday morning.

HAPPY JAYCEE-ETTES ATTENDED THE SIT-IN-HEN Meeting at Hereford on Friday night. Sara Tiley, Judy Shipman, Skip Simons, and Joy Freeman attended the business meeting, gave Happy's report and heard Dr. Rush speak on Cancer. RICK SPEAR IS going to West Texas instead of Amarillo College. Guess men can change their minds, too. Ferne says he is very happy there. (I know several that are).

JIM MCMANIGAL IS at West Texas, too, teaching, that is. Jim told me the other night it isn't as easy teaching as kids think that it is. (You have to outsmart several of them). Jim will supervise the Nance Ranch Feedlot project and new pork center which is under construction at the ranch area. Jim was an honor graduate of Texas A&M and formerly supervised the swine center at Tech. Many of you remember Jim as a good showman even when he first started out and I'll bet he is a good instructor. Jim is married to Willa Jane (Elliott) and they have one daughter, Christi.

JOHN MCNEILL IS attending the University of Kentucky.

DORENE AND SHERMAN Cox are grandparents again. Jim and Jini have a baby girl, Jo Nell, who was born August 28th, weighing five pounds and fourteen ounces. She has black hair and dark blue eyes and big brother, Jay. Jay wouldn't come home with his Granny either. He had to stay in Frisco and take care of that new baby sister.

CAROL AND ELMO Edmonds of Quitaque have a new girl born on September 1st. Grandparents are Doll and George Edmonds.

MRS. OSCAR REED was honored on her 81st birthday with coffee and cake at Anna Mae McManigal's home. Mrs. Vaughn, Mrs. Smythe, and Velma Greenfield helped celebrate and Merle White and Lizzie Wesley sent birthday cards, but were unable to attend. Happy birthday, Mrs. Reed.

JETTIE AND AMOS Ratjen are also on that European trip. The first stop was Paris.

City Commission To Meet Monday Night

The Canyon City Commission, in its regular semi-monthly session Monday, will discuss and possibly take action on a variety of governmental matters.

Early in the session the commission has scheduled a public hearing for consideration of annexation of property situated just north of the city limits. The proposed action was begun August 21, with final passage or defeat set for Nov. 6.

The city will ask for bids on 1,000 feet of fire hose as it does each year. Deputy Fire Chief Joe Rice is also expected to issue a report on fire department activities and planned innovations in the department.

In response to a request made by the Canyon Planning and Zoning Commission, a proposed ordinance dealing with church parking in the retail districts will be presented to members for consideration.

Because of past survey errors, consideration is to be given to a replat of Hidden Valley, Unit 8. The properties involved front on the north side of Brookhaven Drive and lie between 11th Street and 18th Street.

As requested by Larry Hooper, the commission is expected to again look into the matter of closing West 8th Street between blocks three and four.

Ordinance No. 340, which completes the 1972-73 assessment program, will also be presented to commission members for consideration.

Following completion of the agenda, the commission will be open to other business matters and comments from the public.

Buffalo Boosters Hear Mayfield - See Practice Film

The Buffalo Booster Club, with about 30 members in attendance Thursday night heard Coach Gene Mayfield discuss this weekend's gridiron bout with Drake University and viewed film of two recent controlled scrimmages.

The loss of two key players to injuries and another through a family death was mentioned by Mayfield. The losses, he said could greatly affect his team's prospects for the encounter with Drake.

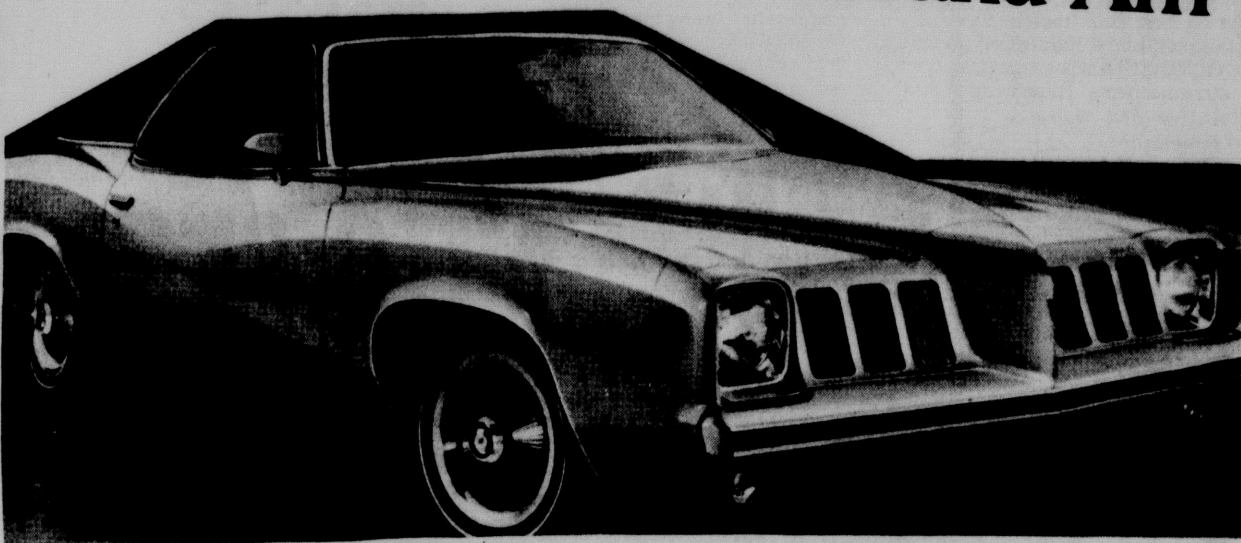

In a more light-hearted moment, Mayfield said that the newspapers, obviously meaning the "Northern Press," had warned him about the great passing of Drake quarterback Dennis Redmond and another lesser known ballcarrier. "Right now I'm not too concerned about it," the coach was quoted as saying.

The club meets each Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the First National Bank in Canyon. The next gathering will feature highlights of the WTSU-Drake game.

Professor Levels Charge At WT

BY CARROLL WILSON

A West Texas State University music professor charged early last week he was denied his right to attend the Republican state convention Tuesday as an alternate delegate.

In a confusing series of events throughout the latter part of the week, Dr. Donald Todd, who teaches stringed instruments, was finally granted permission to attend the convention by the university administration.

At least one professor had apparently no trouble obtaining permission to attend the Democratic state convention which is scheduled to begin Tuesday, also.

Todd revealed his predicament to The Canyon News at mid-week, after he had been told by university officials he could not attend the convention.

He told The News of this sequence of events:

On Sept. 5 or 6, Todd turned in a university form, notification of absence, to his department head, Dr. George Umberson, requesting he be allowed to obtain substitute instruction for his classes on next Monday and Tuesday so he could attend the Republican convention.

"He told me on Friday (Sept. 8) that Dr. Malzahn (Ray Malzahn, vice president for academic affairs at WTSU) found it to be an unusual request," Todd said. "He hadn't had anything like it before and wanted to study the matter over the weekend."

On Monday, Todd was called to Umberson's office and found Umberson and Dr. John Green, dean of the school of fine arts.

"Umberson told me—and Green concurred—that I could not go, that I was not excused to go to the convention," Todd said. "I told them I was under the impression some Democratic delegates from the WTSU faculty might be going to their state convention. Dr. Green told me that it was a policy just established and that it would apply to any other faculty member."

After hearing of the denial, Todd wrote a letter to Dr. Malzahn.

The letter, dated Sept. 13, states in part that Todd was named an alternate delegate to the convention and that it is very important for him to attend.

"It is vital for me to attend the convention in order that the people of Randall County, Texas, may be properly represented. If I were to attend, it would necessitate my leaving the day before the convention; therefore, I would miss classes and applied music lessons on Monday and Tuesday (September 18-19). I respectfully urge you to relent from your earlier decision denying me the opportunity to participate in this vital function of the American scheme of life."

Todd told The News he had made arrangements with a senior string student and a graduate assistant to teach his two classes on Monday. He said he had contacted individual students concerning the postponement of music lessons scheduled Tuesday.

"I've used a senior student before as a substitute and it's been approved by John Green when he was head of the music department," Todd said.

Malzahn told The News Thursday night Todd could attend the convention provided suitable substitute teachers were found.

He said Todd would have to hire competent substitutes to take his classes.

He denied that Todd's department head had told Todd he couldn't attend the convention.

Malzahn told The News he would write an answer to Todd's letter.

"I'll tell him he'll have to make arrangements to pay them (substitutes)," he said. "Todd is a

Des Moines, Iowa — Drake's Bulldogs took advantage of eight West Texas State University turnovers to score a 40-12 victory here Saturday afternoon in the football season opener for both teams.

The Buffaloes of WTSU saw the football slip out of their arms as fumbles 13 times during the contest and lost six of those. Two other times Buffalo passes were picked off by Drake and one of them was returned for Drake's final touchdown, a 54-yarder by Scott Rainbolt.

In addition to being the season opener for both clubs, it was also a Missouri Valley Conference clash and gives Drake an early advantage in the conference standings.

Drake Coach Jack Wallace has predicted that his team will be conference champions.

The Buff misfortunes started early as quarterback Bob Sweat fumbled a hand-off on the game's opening play from scrimmage and Drake recovered at the Buffalo 20. Six plays later, Jerry Heston went the final yard to score and Bob Smith kicked the conversion to give the Bulldogs an early 7-0 lead.

As it did most of the times in the game when the Buffs were able to hold onto the football, the wishbone offense worked to perfection the next time West Texas got the ball.

The Buffaloes moved 74 yards in 11 plays with Borger's Cole Fraley going the final yard. Arcadio Rivera's kick was wide and Drake held a 7-6 advantage with 6:20 remaining in the first quarter.

Drake defensive tackle Mike Samples tackled Sweat in the Buff end zone as the Buff quarterback attempted to pass with 3:16 showing on the first quarter clock. That gave Drake a 9-6 lead.

Following an interception by defensive end Walter Hibbler and a return of 55 yards, the Buffaloes pushed for their other score with 14:56 left in the first half.

Fraley tallied from the five to climax the 12-yard push. Juan Garza kicked wide and the Buffs led 12-9.

Drake finally got its offense cranked up and moved 74 yards in 11 plays with the next kick-off to take a 16-12 lead. Heston tallied on a four-yard run and Smith converted.

Following a Buffalo fumble at their own 4-yard line, Drake quickly scored again. Pete Solverson took a pass from quarterback Dennis Redmond on the first play following the Buff fumble and Drake led 23-12, following Smith's conversion kick.

The Buffaloes quickly moved down the field in the remaining 1:03 of the first half but saw time run out on them on the Drake 3-yard line.

In the third quarter, Rex Perry caught a 41-yard scoring pass from Redmond and Bob Smith converted to give the Bulldogs a commanding 30-12 lead.

Smith converted on a 21-yard field goal attempt and Rainbolt returned the pass interception for Drake's fourth quarter scoring.

The Buffs held an advantage in first downs, 18-6 and in yards rushing 206-203.

With Redmond doing the pitching, the Bulldogs did, however, (See BUFFS, Page 5)

Mayor J. Manly Bryan signed a proclamation late last week proclaiming today through next Saturday as Bicycle Safety Week in Canyon. Helping with the signing are Cary Magness, left, who is heading up the week's activities in Canyon, and bike riders Charlie Childs, 11, son of LTC and Mrs. John Childs, and Stan Sanders, 11, son of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Sanders.

Bike Safety Week To Begin Today

The Safest Cycling City in America. That is the goal set for Canyon in a bicycle safety drive starting today.

Service, safety and civic groups have pooled their facilities and personnel under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce to make everyone of Canyon's estimated several hundred cyclists safety-conscious.

"There are nearly 70 million cyclists in America today," Cary Magness of the Chamber noted, "from youngsters of six to 'oldsters' of 76. It's part of a nationwide boom in recreational cycling. This increase in cycling activities increases the individual's responsibility to ride safely."

"Almost every bike accident can be traced to lack of knowledge or negligence on the part of the rider," he said. "National statistics compiled by the Bicycle Institute of America show that the greatest number of mishaps occur because of traffic rule violations or bicycles improperly cared for by owners."

"We're going to let every cyclist know what he should do and then try to see that he does it," he continued. "It takes very little extra effort to avoid accidents. Riding by the rules is the best way to keep your bike a vehicle for good health and pleasure."

Bike week climaxes Saturday with a full day of activities.

But, until then, plenty of things are in the mill to make Canyon's residents more safety conscious.

The women's division of the chamber, for example, is sponsoring a poster contest for elementary school students at Rex Reeves and Gene Howe schools. Judging will be done during the week and awards given Saturday, according to division president Virginia Cotten.

All you can see are Bulldogs as Canyon running back Bill Moore tries to find running room in Friday night's game in Canyon. The Eagles lost 7-0 to Borger in the second game of the season.

Eagles Lose 7 to 0 to Bulldogs

Canyon's Eagles were caught off-guard Friday night by a team which advertised its passing game and showed up in Kimbrough Stadium with a solid running attack.

Eagle defenders had been training last week for the Borger passing game and when Borger came to Canyon it blasted holes in the middle of the Canyon line to carry home a 7-0 win over the locals.

It was the second close defeat of the season for the Eagles. They lost last week to Spearman 18-13.

Led by the driving punch of Glenn Gray, a 158-pound junior, the Bulldogs racked up no pass yardage during Friday night's tilt.

Lone score of the evening was set in the first two minutes of the game.

The Eagles elected to receive the initial kickoff and took the ball on their own 22 yard line.

In just three plays, it appeared the Eagles had it together for a sustaining drive downfield.

But, with a first and 10 on his own 38, starting quarterback Ed Lair, a 168-pound Canyon junior, let the ball slip from his hands and Borger recovered on the 36 yard line of Eagle territory.

In just nine plays covering about three minutes, the Bulldogs had driven to score from the one on a run by Gray.

The kick was good and with 6:49 showing on the first period clock, Borger had a 7-0 edge.

It was an edge they were to hold through the remainder of the game, as both teams plunged up and down the field in search of a score.

The Eagles threatened with just minutes remaining in the second half after they had driven from their own 45 to the Bulldog 22.

Key play of the series was a pass from Bill Moore, who started the game at the running back position, to Matt Hanson. Hanson ran the ball to the 22.

Unfortunately, because of penalties, the 20-yard pass play wasn't good enough for a first down and with a fourth down situation, the Eagles elected to try a field goal.

Moore kicked the ball but it was blocked by a Bulldog defender and Borger took over possession on its own 33.

Borger threatened again early in the fourth quarter as they drove to the Eagle 13 and were stopped on a fourth down situation.

They threatened with just 1:12 showing on the clock as they drove from their own 24 yard line to the Eagle 14 and attempted a field goal to put the game on ice.

The try was no good and the Eagles took over for their last opportunity to even up the game.

In the ensuing five plays, Lair attempted four passes and the Eagles were called on two penalties which set them back to their own 5.

Lair rolled back to pass once again and was dropped on the 3.

In a desperation effort, he (See EAGLES, Page 5)

Poff and Sherman Critical Of Special Session Call

Canyon's representatives to the Texas legislature will reluctantly return to Austin Monday for Gov. Preston Smith's called special session on insurance reform.

Rep. Bryan Poff and Sen. Max Sherman expressed dismay with the early week announcement of the session by the Texas governor.

"It's a good subject but a bad time," Poff said. "It's a very worthy subject but I'm not sure his timing is right."

Sherman voiced similar sentiments.

"The problem is that this should have been done a year ago," Poff said. "With November approaching, people have elections coming up and half the legislature isn't going to be down there. June would have been a better time to do it."

Poff believes Smith's action was motivated by his anger that his appointee Larry Teaver was not confirmed to head the state's insurance board.

"He was motivated by that appointment plus the fact that Crawford Martin (attorney general) said he could not do a lot of budgetary functions," Poff said. "But, you never can predict what Preston Smith's going to do."

"This is the first time that I can remember that we've had a special session form to undertake something of this type."

Sherman is concerned about the effectiveness of the legislature in the session which begins Monday.

"The main thing that concerns me is that this is a lame-duck session and over half the house and half the senate won't be coming back," he said. "I'm just not sure they have the same accountability to the people and this is a serious issue. I have my doubts."

Sherman, like Poff, believes Smith was motivated by his ire at the failure of his Teaver appointment and by the recent rulings against his power by Martin.

"He was very upset by Teaver not being confirmed," Sherman said. "Then, he made a statewide television broadcast hinting about this session. Some indications I got were that he was backing away from calling this session now."

Nevertheless, Sherman believes some good legislation can come out of the special session.

"I think it could be if we can concentrate on that one area," he said. "But, I think it would be better if we could take it up in a full session."

Survey To Begin On Day Care Need

The funding may not be available, but staff members at the Texas Panhandle Community Action Corporation will begin soon a survey in Canyon and 25 other counties of the area to determine whether there is a need for day care centers in those counties.

County Judge Woody Pond, president of the TPCAC, said he requested the survey be run in Canyon at Thursday night's meeting of the corporation's executive committee in Amarillo.

He said he was told by Argus Burnett, executive director, that Labor Department officials in Fort Worth had requested a survey be accomplished in every Panhandle county.

It is anticipated that if the need for such centers in several areas is proven, funding might become available.

Six other requests for surveys on the feasibility of establishing day care centers were heard by the executive committee members Thursday.

"I can see there might be a need for one in Canyon," Pond said, "with probably all the working mothers we might have putting their husbands through school."

Currently, Amarillo has the only operating year-round day-care center. A center was operated in Wellington and

University Withdraws From Metro Intelligence Squad

West Texas State University is no longer a part of the Randall-Potter Metro Intelligence Unit. The disclosure was made this week by University Police Chief Jim Passons.

Passons, in an exclusive News interview, said the move was made because of a shortage of men and was in no way due to recent problems experienced by the multi-agency unit. "We have two officers who will be attending a six-week certification school beginning Oct. 2, and Lee was brought back to the campus," said the chief. "We need his experience and training here, especially with two men going away to school."

Morgan, a member of the department for more than two years, spent one year in Amarillo with the Metro Unit. He is one of only two department members now certified by the state. Capt. A.R. Potts is the other.

Chief Passons said officers Kenneth L. Grantham and Clifford Summar will take the 240-hour certification course beginning in October. The chief and Jesse H. Hooper, both not yet certified, will enroll in a similar school at a later date.

According to state law, all police officers must have a minimum of 200 school hours and one year of in-the-field experience.

Another member of the department, David M. McCauley, has the required schooling and will have one year experience within the next three weeks.

GOP, Demos Head For Convention

U.S. Senator John Tower, his wife and family being greeted by well-wishers on their campaign stop at Tradewinds Airport Thursday afternoon. (See story on Page 2)

Randall County will be well represented by both Republicans and Democrats Tuesday when both parties hold state conventions in Austin.

The conventions for the state's two major parties are being held in compliance with the Texas Election Code and are to adopt platforms for their respective gubernatorial candidates. At the same time, the returns from the spring primaries will be canvassed and candidates for state offices certified. Both parties are expected to select officers and members of their state executive committees.

Randall County Republican Chairman W. Tom Price III, of 3004 S. Hayden in Amarillo, said that an estimated 30 delegates, alternates and party members would depart by chartered bus early Monday morning.

They will hear as their keynote speaker Gov. Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, that state's first Republican governor in 50 years. Other speakers slated to address the GOP include Hank Grover, candidate for governor, U. S. Sen. John Tower, state chairman George Willeford, state vice chairman Mrs. Malcolm Milburn, treasurer candidate Maurice Angly and railroad commission candidate Jim Segrest.

County Chairman Price said that he expected no political "surprises" at the one-day gathering but he did not count out some changes in party policy. "Selecting officers and the committee will be the biggest thing," he predicted.

This will be the second convention for the Texas GOP this year, with the first one in Galveston (See GOP, Page 5)

Our World

We're Great People Despite Detractors

By ANN BROWN

One hundred and twenty young Japanese farmers are currently touring the United States. They are being royally entertained in the homes of American farmers.

There is probably not one family hosting the visitors who did not have relatives involved in the war with Japan. And all of the visitors' families were affected by the war and the occupation.

How can two peoples so recently engaged in such bitter conflict be friends?

There can be only one answer: Americans are a great people, and farmers are the backbone of the nation.

Japan was cruel, treacherous, implacable enemy. Yet after America was victorious, we made no attempt to wreak vengeance on the conquered peoples. Rather, MacArthur's army of occupation ministered to the needs, bound up the wounds, and set a fallen nation on its feet again.

The visiting Japanese want to learn American farming methods, but they insist they are far more interested in learning our customs, way of life, and what makes this such a "great, free land."

God's world has always been beautiful. But evil reared its ugly head in the very first family on earth. Eve's disobedience was followed by the birth of an evil son. But while we disparage wicked Cain, we are prone to forget that 3 out of 4 of that first family were good people.

Probably no one would question that the majority of Americans are good people. But attention has been focused on the evil minority for so long that the whole world tends to see nothing else.

Americans set a precedent when they reserved land for the aborigines, and took care of them at government expense. Traditionally, victors either annihilated, enslaved, or banished a vanquished people.

Those who decry the "cruel" treatment of American Indians err on several counts. Primarily they overlook a basic law of nature: What one does not use, one must lose.

The Indians were not developing this great land. They did not "subdue it" nor exercise "dominion" over it. And the tribes warred against each other far more cruelly than the pioneers ever warred against them.

Indians are free to continue in their traditional culture—as long as they are peaceable—or leave the reservations and join the constantly changing pattern of American life.

At the end of World War I, the U.S. sought no spoils for their tremendous contribution to the allied cause.

At the end of W. W. II, Germany and Japan were in shambles. Now they are reported to have the soundest economies in the world. Why? Because instead of spoiling their enemies, generous Americans gave a helping hand to two thrifty, hardworking nations.

America has contributed more to the spiritual, physical, and material welfare of the world than any other nation in recorded history. And why not? We have collected the "cream" from every nation on earth.

Granted, lawless people have always been a part of America. And if we refuse to deal with them as our fathers did, we must suffer the consequences. But in spite of the Eldridge Cleavers, Timothy Learys, and Jane Fondas, America is still the best country in the world.

If a minority of people fortunate enough to be born here, or a few immigrants privileged to become citizens can't appreciate this "great, free land," it's gratifying that strangers can.

Congressman Talks Wheat

U.S. Congressman Bob Poage, stumping the area on behalf of fellow Democrat Graham Purcell, was in Canyon Friday night to address a farm group at West Texas State University.

The 72-year-old Waco resident has been on the House Agriculture Committee and has served as its chairman the past six years.

He told the small gathering at the university Activities Center that Purcell was in the best position to represent the needs of the district. Poage had made stopovers in about five other cities in the district being wooed by Purcell and Republican Bob Price before arriving in Canyon. He was in Amarillo for a Purcell testimonial dinner Saturday night.

Following the informal talk at WTSU, Poage told The News that it was not, in regard to the sale of wheat to Russia, just a matter of Texas farmers not getting full price for their wheat. The veteran congressman said had the wheat sale not been made, Texas farmers would have gotten more through the subsidy payments.

According to Poage, the sale to Russia reduced the price difference between the national market and support figures. "We had a wide gap in June when farmers sold their wheat but when the sale was announced the gap narrowed," he said. "The farmer didn't get the higher price and also lost on the subsidy."

The agriculture leader said the amount lost would run as high as three million dollars and that he felt the government should pay for the losses caused by the sale. "Payment would be justified when the government was responsible," he concluded.

Passing Buck All Way Back

By CARROLL WILSON

Computers, exalted as the answer to man's slowness, can solve a problem in a picosecond. The whirring, buzzing machines are reputed to have streamlined businesses and brought about untold economies and conveniences for the consumer.

Now, with the universality of the computer paired with the universality of credit buying, the computer has gained infamy as the cause of a lot that is wrong. Who was it that said "The buck stops here"? It must have been a computer.

Take the case of poor Consumer Charlie.

Charlie got his bank statement the other day and began the monthly routine of checking his figures against those produced by his bank's bookkeeping department.

Now, Charlie is a fairly fastidious chap and when he found a 50-cent error in his figures, he frantically flipped back through his checks, the banks figures and his own figures.

After working three days and three nights on his checkbook, Charlie, his eyes half-opened and red and the veins in his neck pulsating wildly, stalked into his bank, plopped down his checkbook and the bank's balance sheet and demanded an answer.

"I'm sure there's nothing wrong in our books," grinned the slick young man behind the counter.

And, therein, Charlie discovered the first rule of computerism: the computer is never wrong. Therefore, the bank's books are never wrong. Therefore, the mistake must be Charlie's.

After a three-hour investigation, during which Charlie collapsed from nervous exhaustion, the slick banker returned and grinned down at Charlie's immobile body on the floor: "You're right," he said. "The computer made a mistake."

Had Charlie been conscious, he would have learned the second tenet of computerism: If something goes wrong, blame it on the computer. After all, who can talk to a computer?

Charlie's story isn't unique. More and more, the front office which has contact with the consumer has learned that the easiest answer to give when something goes wrong is simply this: "The computer made the mistake. Sorry."

What could be more frustrating? When a clerk makes an error, the customer can vent his spleen in the usual verbal manner. What can you do to a computer? Kick it?

The simple fact is that computers rarely make mistakes. But, people who tell the computers what to think, how to think and what to think with make mistakes.

And, those are the people you can vent your spleen on.

Regional planning commissions have emerged in this state to have more power than I think many of the people who advocated them several years ago would have dreamed of.

The Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, for example, is liaison between the local governmental units and the federal government or state government.

Their basic function is to be planning, but the PRPC also has the power to recommend or not recommend certain projects for local government which require federal funding.

And, in four years' time, the PRPC has grown from a one-man operation to one involving a large staff and budget.

Pat Stephens, an instructor in government at West Texas State University returned last week from the 7th Annual Governor's Workshop on Intergovernmental Relations and Regional Planning.

The general feeling Stephens returned to Canyon with is that it is the desire of the federal government to place more emphasis or strengthen the state government and regional planning commission roles in doling out federal funds.

They would like to see more requests routed through the regional planning commissions and the states.

Stephens also learned of a federally-established multi-state regional planning commission.

For example, a planning commission has been established for the Southwestern states at the federal level to coordinate states' requests.

With the squeeze on money for towns, cities and counties throughout the country, the importance of attracting federal money is increasing by leaps and bounds.

It's not hard to see in the not-too-distant future the power regional planning commissions will have.

Letters To The Editor

Friendship Remembered

Mr. Troy Martin
Editor, Canyon News

I want to thank you, Troy Martin, for giving me the privilege, shortly after we moved to this city, of writing a series of articles on the pioneers of this community. You told me then that to do so would probably be an excellent opportunity to make good and lasting friends. It was. Among these friends was the late and lovely Mrs. Gordon-Cumming.

I was on my way to the airport to fly to San Diego when I learned of the passing of this dear lady. We had had a rain storm the previous night and as I looked down on the huge bubbling thunder heads a few moments later, I thought of a sunny afternoon last summer when my telephone rang and Mrs. Gordon-Cumming said, "Glenna, there's an unusual cloud in the sky and I thought you might enjoy seeing it."

Because of trees and houses around my place I jumped in my car and drove up the hill to glimpse the cloud. There it was, set apart from the rest like a giant swirl of ice cream reluctant to melt. A beautiful spectacle I shall always remember because I had a thoughtful friend.

At a tea given in honor of her 94th birthday, "Aunt Molly" looked as if she had stepped from the latest fashion sheet, but the rugged pioneer whispered after my compliments, "Honey, I've a bit of a catch in my side today. You see, I decided to sweep a few cob webs from my ceilings this week."

So it is I think of her today—sharing blessings or sweeping down cobwebs and I keep praying that God will never throw away her pattern.

Thanks again to you and yours
With all sincerity,
Glenna Wilson

Cannon Logic Questioned

Dear Sir:

I am writing in reference to several aspects of Thomas Cannon's letter to the editor in the September 10 Sunday News.

Mr. Cannon takes issue with the "Our World" comment that Bible teaching is forbidden on the college campus. The column stated "Bible reading has been forbidden in public classrooms." Any high school student knows the difference between college campus and public schools (elementary, junior high, and high school).

Mr. Cannon was incensed enough to conduct a poll of college professors to see if liberals retaliate against non-concurring students. Herein was his error. He asked the teachers, not the students. What teacher would admit to retaliation? And if a teacher will not admit to retaliation, will he truthfully admit to having had prejudiced teachers in his own education? (Students under pressure for passing grades will not readily admit the truth, either.)

This is not the first time Mr. Cannon has made reference to the "Our World" column in your fine paper. It seems to be one of his favorite subjects. My question is, if he can't stand the column, why does he read it?

Ann Brown's avid readers enjoy his illogical letters and "free advertising" for the "Our World" column. Keep it up, Tom!

Sincerely,

Tower Blasts Ramsey Clark During Stop In Randall Co.

U.S. Senator John Tower visited Randall County Thursday afternoon, the second stop on his current three-day, 19-city reelection tour.

The Senator, his wife and three young daughters were greeted by more than 100 apparent supporters who gathered at Tradewinds Airport under overcast and threatening skies.

The fact that the red, white and blue plane was some thirty minutes late in arriving did not seem to dismay the balloon and placard waving throng. As they waited behind a hangar listening to music offered by a small band, the patient group several times broke into a chant. "Six more years," the words erupted.

When the small plane taxied to a point near the crowd, enthusiasm grew stronger. When the Senator and his family stepped to the asphalt runway, they were met with a rousing cheer.

After an introduction by Ed Carter of Austin, a long-time Democrat and former ambassador, Tower took to the microphone atop the bed of a banner decked truck. He wasted no time in getting around to his subject matter.

The Republican veteran lashed out at former attorney general Ramsey Clark, attacking statements made during a recent Clark visit to Hanoi. "I have no sympathy for anyone who puts the welfare of draft dodgers hiding out in Canada above the welfare of prisoners of war in North Vietnam," Tower told the cheering audience.

He took issue with all who criticize the U.S. military and said he did not want the support of anyone who visited and agreed with this country's enemies.

In an interview before taking the speaker's stand, Tower termed the sale of wheat to Russia and Red China a "possible boom" to the American farmer. He admitted that the transaction was being criticized and that there was a remote possibility that the deal might backfire in the same manner as did the sale of scrap material to Japan before World War II. "But," the Senator added, "I do not think it will be dangerous."

During the several introductions which preceded the talk by Tower, other members of the family were presented corsages by Amarillo City Commissioner Windy Nicklaus, substituting for Mayor Ray Vahue. At that time, Mrs. Tower and children voiced appreciation for the weather which for a time had threatened to mar the rally. They said their first stop, in Dallas, had been uncomfortably hot and humid.

At one point in the ceremony, when the crowd gave forth with the "Six more years" chant, Mrs. Tower looked up and in a soft voice as if talking to herself said, "Six more years and they'll have to carry me up on the platform."

The tour was to end Saturday evening in Waco.

Busy Day Due Here Next Sat.

Most drivers have experienced the unsettling "near miss" of following a bike rider down the street.

Canyon's Chamber of Commerce is hoping to educate bike riders and at the same time draw people to Canyon during a day-long rodeo and race Saturday.

Beginning Saturday morning on the First National Bank parking lot, youngsters and adults of all ages will gather for the bike safety rodeo.

According to chairman Cary Magness, each person who wants to enter the rodeo should pick up a packet that contains the rules, a written test (plus the answers), a bike inspection test, a parental consent form, and general information about the rodeo. These packets are available at five businesses in Canyon.

The rodeo begins at 9 a.m., and again is open to all ages. A three-speed bike will be given away at an awards ceremony late Saturday afternoon.

And ribbons will be presented to winners.

At 2 p.m. bike races will be held around the inside street of the downtown square.

Prizes up to $150 in gift certificates will be given to winners in different classes. Kids must be 8 years old to enter the youngest division, and the open class will be for those folks over 18.

In other words, it is going to be a day for kids of all ages. And in addition to having a good time, winning some nice gifts, and getting a physical workout, the bike riders should come away from the day knowing lots more about bike safety.

That's the purpose of the rodeo, and from the enthusiasm shown by the kids, I believe it will be a busy day in Canyon.

I urge you to gather up the family, bring them to town for a good ole fashioned Saturday, enjoy your neighbors, watch the fun, and learn more about your hometown.

S.S. Cards Victim of Slowdown
Getting a new social security card is no longer as easy or as fast as it once was. This information was issued this week by Travis G. Briggs, District Manager of the Social Security office in Amarillo.
According to Briggs, new policies and controls have brought about the slowdown which now causes a delay of several weeks in the issuing of new numbers. "But," said Briggs, "if a person has lost a card and remembers the number we can still give fast service."
The official suggested that anyone needing a social security card should make application early in order to offset the longer waiting period.
Applications are available at the Amarillo office located at 317 E. 3rd St.

You say you have a small foreign car and have trouble getting it worked on?
Or, you haven't had much luck finding a good mechanic for your favorite car?
Bob Horton Garage is the answer for you. He and his assistant, Marion Hartman, can work on any and all makes and models of vehicles.
They are in gear now for those winter tune-ups needed before winter really strikes.
Horton says, "A tune-up and a brake check should be done every 10,000 to 15,000 miles while an automatic transmission check should be made every 25,000 miles."
The owner of Horton Garage, located at 604 23rd St. has some 28 years experience with automobiles. He worked for General Motors for 25 years and opened his own shop three years ago.
Hartman is a native of Canyon and has 10 years experience with cars.
"We want to say welcome to the West Texas State University students," Bob says, "and invite everyone to bring their cars in for the winter tune-up."
Horton explains he can handle any motor repair, tune-ups, motor overhauls, automatic transmissions, air conditioning, and "just all general repairs."
"All our work is guaranteed for 4,000 miles or 90 days. We guarantee our customers prompt, top quality service," Horton states.
Bob and his wife Nell have one child Linda, and they reside at the west end of Canyon on Sixth Ave.
"We appreciate your business. Try us, you'll like us."

Susan Restine and Marshal Gohlke just can't wait for Buffalo football to start this fall. The two may have a long wait if they keep up their vigil at Kimbrough Stadium. The WTSU Buffs began their season against Drake Saturday, about three months ago being primarily to deal with candidates.

GOP. . .

Randall County, according to Price, is one of the strongest Republican counties in the state, ranking about eighth.

Tuesday's gathering of Democrats will also be the second convention for their party. The first was held in mid-June and was for the purpose of selecting delegates for the national convention.

The upcoming state gathering will be headed by Dolph Briscoe, Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

According to Randall County party chairman Marion Bruce, about 17 delegates are to make the trip. The county leader said his group was allowed 22 votes but would only be able to count those in attendance. This, he said, was because a unit vote by the delegation was not allowed.

When asked if changes in party policy were expected to be made, Bruce replied, "You bet. I sure hope so." He went further by saying the party had no real system due to past governors not taking part in party politics. Bruce added that "We are operating in a vacuum handed down by McGovern rules."

A list of convention speakers was not available from county leaders late this week.

Democrats planning to make the trip to Austin include E.E. Elliott, George Dowling, Bennie Turner, Mrs. Mary Lamb and Roberta Hicks, all of Canyon. Roberta Hicks is a candidate for state committeewoman.

Amarillo residents include Wayne Bagley, Wayne Dammier, T.A. Serrurier, David Schultz, Ed Fletcher, Mrs. Willie Fletcher, Marion Bruce, Mrs. Louis Evans Bruce and Jim McNeese.

Others, whose addresses were not provided, include Andrea Green, Bob McClendon and Richard Martin.

A list of Republicans attending their convention was not made available.

Earlier in the day Thursday, The News found that David Matthis, a professor in the government department, was planning to attend the Democratic state convention.

Contacted at home Thursday evening, Matthis confirmed that he would attend the convention. He said he would be absent from classes on Monday and Tuesday.

Matthis said "it was okay with the administration" because he had made arrangements to have his classes taught.

Before noon on Friday, Todd had received Matthis's answering letter.

The letter states, in part: "When you signed the Employment Agreement with West Texas State University for 1972-73, you accepted the professional responsibility of meeting and teaching all of your classes when and where scheduled. According to the best information at my disposal there are three reasons of official acceptability by the State of Texas for not fulfilling that responsibility. The first is illness for which one accrues sick leave; the second, accomplishing University business; and the third, attending professional meetings directly related to one's discipline. Obviously, neither of the last two are official unless done with prior administrative approval.

"Matters that are not within these three categories are personal and are not official. For a faculty member to accept voluntarily and without prior discussion with his department head personal responsibilities that keep him from his classroom causes serious questions about his professionalism and commitment to teaching. Further, for a faculty member to cause a conflict between his teaching and his personal responsibilities and then to attempt to involve the public in the problem raises additional serious questions. . . ."

At 1:15 p.m. Friday, Todd met with Matthis and Green to further discuss the matter.

"I'm going to the convention," Todd told The News following the meeting.

Todd said he was told by Matthis that the university had begun, as a result of his request, a new "personal leave" policy, which would cover cases such as his.

He was also told it would be alright to have the university's other string instructor take his two Monday classes and to postpone his Tuesday private lessons.

"I think this is a real benefit for the future," Todd said. "This will set a precedent."

At the moment, says Louder, the final figure could fall anywhere within those estimates . . . or it could even be more or less.

The whole thing is a matter of no one knowing anything for sure and with the amount of confusion connected with the proposal, it may be a long, long time before anybody knows for sure.

And by then, the whole program may turn out to be obsolete.

Larry McClendon of the Department of Public Safety will show a film and give a short speech during each presentation.

The big events of the week will be Saturday.

A bike safety rodeo begins at 9 a.m. Saturday at the First National Bank parking lot. And bicycle races begin at 2 p.m. around the Canyon square.

Information kits concerning the rodeo may be obtained from Western Auto, White's, First National Bank, West Texas State Bank, and Hosea Foster Agency.

Ribbons and cash prizes will be offered in the races which begin at 2 p.m. Application blanks are available at the First National Bank, West Texas State Bank, Western Auto, White's, Buffalo Bookstore and the WTSU activities center.

Deadline for entering the races is 5 p.m. Friday.

passed once again, and this time the ball was intercepted by Terry Dillingham on the Eagle 22 yard line.

It was the final blow for Canyon as only 13 seconds remained in the game.

The Eagles racked up 171 yards total net rushing for the evening with 83 yards of that in the air.

Lair and Moore attempted 12 passes.

Leading Eagle rusher was Hanson with 59 net yards. Moore racked up a net total of 28 yards.

The Eagles were penalized 60 yards during the game.

Borger tallied 178 yards during the outing and made none of them in the passing department.

Gray tallied 118 yards during his mid-line pounding runs against Canyon.

The Bulldogs were penalized only 10 yards during the game.

Borger led in the number of first downs with 10 while Canyon posted 8.

The Eagles met Caprock's Longhorns in action at 8 p.m. next Friday at Bivins Memorial Stadium in Amarillo.

Pond previously told The News a day care center in Canyon would operate mainly for working mothers in a low-income family who is not financially able to hire a baby sitter or pay the cost of a private kindergarten.

"There might be more need in Canyon than anyone ever thought of," Pond said.

"The problem is money," Burnett told The News previously, "but, we're going to keep trying to get it, I assure you."

A day care center would probably consist of play rooms and a sleeping area with a kindergarten-type facility for older children. Personnel to operate the center would be licensed.

Her 1,000th quilt for Assembly of God Church missions has just been stitched by Mrs. Dora Lane, 1705 3rd Ave. This one, queen-sized, was intended as a gift for the Rev. and Mrs. A.J. Pettit, pastor and his wife of the Canyon church.

1,000th Quilt Stitched by Elderly Seamstress

The winter of 66-67 was an unusually severe one in Arizona. The plight of Indiana, caught without fuel, food, and warm clothing, was telegraphed through missionary channels to the Assembly of God Church in Canyon.

Mrs. Dora Lane, age 82, decided to do something about it. Setting up her little portable sewing machine, she began stitching quilts and has been producing three or four a week ever since.

A few days ago, Mrs. Lane completed her 1,000th quilt. A colorful, queen-sized patchwork of bright cotton squares, it will be a gift for Rev. and Mrs. A.J. Pettit who have been close friends for many years.

"The missionaries have come to count on quilts from the Assembly of God Church in Canyon," said the Rev. A.J. Pettit. "They like to give them at Christmas time to the needy families in their missions." The quilts now go out to missions in New Mexico as well as Arizona, and also to children's orphanages in California.

As the fame of Mrs. Lane's quilts has spread in her church's mission circles, donors from as far away as Tennessee send scraps and materials for her to use. Women in Canyon give old sheets to be used as backing for the tops, and they are lined in calico-type prints.

Never a scrap is wasted—she varies the pattern according to the size of the pieces. Some, which she calls "string quilts," are fashioned of narrow strips pieced into blocks.

At the age of 88, Mrs. Lane does all the stitching without benefit of eyeglasses. Women in her church help with the tacking.

"I've had a busy life," says the diminutive, white-haired, seamstress, who for 67 years was a traveling evangelist in the Assembly of God Church and raised seven children besides. After a stroke which impaired her health somewhat, she decided on retirement in Canyon to be near friends.

Mrs. Lane has no intention of resting on her laurels. She is now beginning quilt No. 1001.

Passons, who came to WTSU from Wyoming, said that his former resident state did not certify officers on the basis of school hours and that Texas may not accept his previous school studies. "Because we are short-handed, myself and Hooper will miss this school and attend the next one," the chief added.

When asked about the Metro Unit, Passons was quick to say that he thought the cooperative operation was a good idea. "We will be back in it if our manpower strength ever permits," he said.

The chief admitted that he had not had much experience with the controversial unit, having attended only three meetings. He did say that in some instances he knew that his department had been helped by the inter-agency association. He said he thought the unit's most helpful function was in stopping the flow of drugs.

This, Passons claimed, was made possible because of the unit's authority to cross from one jurisdiction area into another.

Former Metro officer Morgan has been assigned to investigate thefts, burglaries and other major crimes which occur on the campus.

Morgan and Hooper are currently enrolled at the university and are working on their degrees. Grantham and Summar were not able to register for this semester due to their being away for the six-week police school period.

Test dates are Nov. 11, Jan. 27, April 7, and July 21.

The examinations are no longer required for certification by the State of Texas, although some Texas school districts and other states require the test, says Dr. Kenneth Waugh, director of the WTSU testing and counseling center.

On each day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations, which measure professional preparation and general educational background, and a Teaching Area Examination, which measures the mastery of the subject they expect to teach.

Five top high school choirs including Canyon's will participate in the West Texas State University music department's Honors Choir Festival Saturday, (Sept. 23).

The choirs, selected on the basis of performances at the Interscholastic League Choral Contest last spring, will perform two numbers each beginning at 10 a.m. in the Activities Center ballroom. The event is free to the public.

After the presentations there will be a critique of each choir by Lyn Whitten, director of choral activities at the University of Colorado.

High School choirs and directors participating are Amarillo, directed by George Biffle; Borger, directed by Roger Brown; Canyon, directed by Tom Jennings; Hereford, directed by Fred Ratliff; and Brownfield, directed by Neil Campbell.

Festival activities also include a concert by the 50-member WTSU Chorale under the direction of Dr. Hugh Sanders. Performance time is 2:30 p.m. in the Activities Center ballroom.

Featured in the chorale concert will be a composition, entitled "A Little Thing," by WTSU senior Steve Hilton of Canyon. Hilton will also be featured soloist in "If I Got My Ticket, Can I Ride?," a spiritual arranged by Robert Shaw.

Also programmed are Jacob Handl's "Pater Noster" and Carl Schalk's "Four Lamentations of Jeremiah."

The festival will culminate that evening when the five choirs combine with the chorale for a performance with the university band during halftime of the WTSU-Colorado State football game.

In other business, the board is expected to hear a report on student enrollment and discuss an October joint meeting with the city commission.

reflections on the Arts

By CAROL CRAIN
A "TEXAS" SIZED DISPLAY HAS been on 6 month display at the Philadelphia Bulletin's newspaper office. The travel display has featured giant black and white photographs from "TEXAS" by Andy Hester of the WTSU staff.

The musical drama story, which was mounted and sent to Philadelphia by the "TEXAS" staff, has just been returned.

TWO UMBRELLAS WERE CARRIED at the "Don't Rain On My Parade" parade Thursday preceding the Olympia Brass Band Concert. One of the two umbrella carriers danced as the band traveled down the streets close to the university campus. The cloudy sky had seen the handbills and bowed to the fascinating group from New Orleans... for there was no rain.

Just as the Pied Piper had done in days of old, the Olympia Brass Band picked up groups of 25, then 50, then 100 and more during the short parade going to the successful concert in the Activities Center.

THE AUDIENCE APPAUDED the glittering stars thrown against the black velvet of the night during the "Evening of Dance" in the Amphitheatre last weekend.

Over 1000 persons saw the enjoyable dance variety show in the canyon during the two-day stand.

"Shaft", the dance number choreographed by Rene Clemente, was given a standing ovation, upon its conclusion.

Certainly we will see more evenings of dance in the future, because of the success of this entertaining evening.

A SHOWER OF STARS will be guest artists at The TRI-STATE FAIR next week.

Performances begin September 18-19 with the Roy

Clark Show. Appearing with Clark will be Archie Campbell, Jody Miller, and the Compton Brothers.

The Festival of Music is next, September 20-21 with Chet Atkins, Floyd Cramer, and Boots Randolph. I understand from personal friends that the leader of the "TEXAS" orchestra, Trisha Faubian, will be performing with several Amarillo musicians during this portion of the show.

The closing days of the fair, September 22-23 will feature the always successful Charley Pride Show with Johnny Duncan, the Pridemans, the North Door Singers, and Alex Houston & Elmer.

Tickets are on sale at Sears.

WTSU'S FRIENDS OF FINE ARTS are looking for new members and WALES MADDEN, JR., is serving as the Honorary Chairman.

Those wishing to contribute may write Friends of Fine Arts at Box 275 WT station, Canyon.

"Texas" Founder Mrs. Harper Honored by DAR

Mrs. Margaret Harper, founder of Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, Inc., was singled out for special recognition by Los Ciboleros Chapter of DAR in Hereford at intermission of the "TEXAS" production on the evening of Aug. 22.

At that time Mrs. Earl Holt, acting regent of the Hereford chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution presented Mrs. Harper with a plaque in recognition of her contribution to society in preserving the culture and history of the Panhandle area.

The Texas-shaped plaque is inscribed "Mrs. Ples (Margaret) Harper - Founder of Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, Inc. In appreciation of your great work bringing your dream of 'TEXAS' into a reality, and preserving the colorful history of the Panhandle area for posterity. - Los Ciboleros Chapter, DAR, July 4, 1972, Hereford, Texas."

The plaque presentation, a project connected with the Bi-Centennial Commission of Texas and the Bi-Centennial committee of the Hereford DAR chapter, was made last year to Lawrence Welk in recognition of his patriotic album, according to Mrs. Jo Reinauer, chairman.

Mrs. Harper, now public relations director for "Texas," has seen the production grow into one of the nation's star tourist attractions, drawing 82,228 persons this season.

London Tour Is Planned

The West Texas State University speech department will again sponsor a theatre tour — this time to London for two weeks, Dec. 26 - Jan. 9.

A $535 package includes roundtrip air fare via Pan American Airways from Amarillo; 13 nights at the Bedford Corners Hotel (based on two to a room and including breakfast and all service and taxes); transfers to and from the airport and land transportation while in England.

The fee also covers seven theater tickets, including those to the musical production of "Gone with The Wind" and the National Shakespearean Theatre.

Professional Travel Services, the agency handling the tour, will also provide the full services of an escort throughout the London visit.

The tour is contingent upon enlisting at least 15 persons, says Masquers sponsor, James Kemmerling of the WTSU speech faculty.

Interested persons must file a $50 deposit by Oct. 1 with the WTSU speech department, Kemmerling says. Payment deadline for the remainder is Nov. 20.

Checks should be made payable to Professional Travel Services, Inc., Two Turtle Creek Village, Suite 200, Dallas, Tex. 75219. Checks may be sent directly to that address or brought to the speech department office in the Fine Arts Building on campus, Kemmerling says.

Last year the Masquers sponsored a week-long visit of New York City, including tours of Greenwich village, backstage Broadway and a sampling of New York theater offerings.

Constitution Week Begins Today Many Problems Could Have Cropped Up In Constitution

By JIM SANDS

Today through September 23 is "Constitution Week." It has been so designated by the Congress and the President of the United States and by governors and mayors all across the country.

The Constitution of the United States was the offspring of dreams and work by many early day patriots and has been called the most workable plan for government ever known to man. In many instances individuals and groups have disagreed with either the Constitution or with the interpretation of it as handed down by the United States Supreme Court.

There was a time, or several times, when the "great paper" might have been questioned but apparently was not. According to Dr. Roy Thoman, Associate Professor of Government at West Texas State University, the original wording could have resulted in four independent countries on the East Coast of what is now the United States of America.

An original Constitutional Convention requirement was that to become adopted, it had to be ratified by at least nine states. This would have been a majority at the time. It was not required that the other young states ratify the Constitution or that they join the Union. Therefore, says Dr. Thoman, there very well could have been at least three other independent countries growing up alongside the newly formed United States. He gave as an example, the possibility that there could have been the nation of Rhode Island had that then independent territory chosen not to join its neighbors.

The State of Texas, as we know it now, was after winning its independence from Mexico, such an independent nation. Texas chose to become a state just in time to leave it with other southern states.

Another provision in the Constitution has caused many persons to be led into the belief that the southern states that left the Union were later readmitted. By law, no state was required to ratify the Constitution and join the Union... but neither could a state, once making that move, ever leave the Union. According to the wording of the Constitution, the Confederate States were never out of the Union, therefore they could not and need not be reinstated. There was a period, according to Dr. Thoman, that the rebel states lost many of the privileges that went with being a part of the Union. "It was really a period of punishment," said Dr. Thoman. The punishment period ended in time but not through "readmission."

While the Constitution has seldom been changed and is today interpreted to the letter in matters of law, there are several portions that have died because of changing times or because of changes in other laws or Constitutional Amendments. One such portion deals with the importation of slaves. The law was never changed or deleted but simply became obsolete when slavery in this country was abolished.

And, apparently, not too much thought was given to women back in the early days of amending the Constitution. Negroes were given the right to vote 50 years before the first woman was to cast a ballot. And confusing wording in the 15th Amendment of 1870, which appeared to give even women that right, was never really questioned to the extent that it would be in the "lib" age of today.

According to the Constitution, the 14th Amendment decreed that all Negroes, both men and women, including ex-slaves, be made citizens of the United States.

In section one of the 15th Amendment, it is stated that the right of citizens to vote would not be denied or abridged by the United States or a state because of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Since women somehow considered themselves "citizens," some thought that at last they had won their place at the polls. This did not prove to be the case, even for Negro women who by the earlier 14th Amendment had been elevated to citizen status.

All women, white and black, lost the right to vote when a U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the framers of the Amendment had intended the word "citizen" to mean only the male of the species.

According to latter day students of the Constitution, the word "male" should have been inserted originally or else the Amendment should have been amended if women were to be held back from the voting places. One such authority on the subject said it would appear that women were at the time so obscure that the lawmakers simply forgot to exclude them. That surely would never happen today. At least not for long.

Other portions of the law of this country have been questioned with at least one young man claiming that the 13th Amendment was being violated by use of the military draft. The courts ruled that while servitude, as such, was unconstitutional, the nation's defense against its enemy took priority. And down through history, the draft has been the only exception made in regard to the amendment barring any form of slavery.

It has been said that the 18th Amendment, the one closing down the flow of alcoholic beverages, came closest to being in violation of the "spirit of the Constitution." And that one did not last too long.

The repeal of the 18th Amendment is standing proof that bad laws may be removed, even if not always as easily as they are made. One source with knowledge of the Constitution and how it works claims that too often individuals and groups complain about laws when they really should be working to promote new and better ones. One example given was the law dealing with the charging of persons with treason.

The law governing treason is tough, making it all but impossible to gain a conviction. And this is especially true in times of "legal peace" when no war is declared. It has been suggested by some that effort should be made to change the law to make such convictions easier.

Possibly the founding fathers of this country foresaw some of the future problems and made available more than one way to handle a situation. This was true of the laws relating to treason.

Few persons realize that several U. S. Citizens who were selling secret information during and after World War II were put to death... not for treason... but instead under the provisions set aside to deal with espionage. After all, they were passing information along to our friends, not our enemies. They may have been guilty of treason but the matter was handled in an entirely different light.

Again, the Constitution certainly has not been the total answer to each and every problem that has arisen in this country since 1787 but it does have a pretty good batting average. And like in any game, substitutions may be made from time to time to improve the team.

The Olympia Brass Band played and the crowd swayed behind as they paraded through the West Texas State University campus Thursday night. Young and old alike joined the parade to its culmination at the activities center.

The Music To Move Any Man

If there is music which can move men's souls, it must be the music of New Orleans.

And, if there was anybody in Canyon Thursday night who could keep their toes from tapping, their bodies from swaying or their hands from clapping, then they weren't at 4th Ave. and 24th Street for a first-of-its-kind concert here.

Dejan's Olympia Brass Band played the kind of music you can't sit still and listen to.

And, the way they give a concert doesn't allow you to sit, either.

It's not meditative music and it's not music for fireside reading.

It's music of rejoicing, of happiness. It makes you want to shout.

It was a crowd of young and old that gathered on the edge of the West Texas State University campus Thursday night at dusk, and they waited impatiently for 8 o'clock to arrive.

With little fanfare at 8, Allan Jaffe picked up his battered and beaten bass horn, slipped it over his shoulders and the Olympia Brass Band began to roll.

Heading east on 4th Avenue, the band was led by two old gentlemen decked out in black suits. A bright red and orange banner draped across the front of one of the leaders and he carried a multicolored parasol.

And, the band played. People standing on the sidewalks along 4th joined the growing crowd which had fallen in behind the 10-member ensemble as they blared Dixieland from their instruments and jived down the middle of the street.

One young man, apparently familiar with the traditions surrounding brass bands in New Orleans, opened his umbrella and rocked in time with the music beside the band.

It was a good night for a parade, and students, disturbed by the music as the band paraded by dormitories, rushed downstairs to join the throng.

Heading down 26th street, the band picked up more followers as they broke into tune after tune, amid claps and cheers from the paraders.

The parade portion of the Olympia Band's program ended as, like the Pied Piper of old, they marched into the WTSU activities center with a long stream of followers behind.

The Olympia Brass Band hails from New Orleans where it is the only brass band still playing with regular personnel. The band has played at Carnegie Hall and Philharmonic Hall and is featured annually at the Smithsonian Institution Festival in Washington, D.C. The troupe also plays and parades each year for the Sugar Bowl and Super Bowl games.

The band represented the United States at the Olympic Games in Mexico City in 1968 and in Berlin at the International Volkfest. They have been on the bill at the Newport and Monterey Jazz Festivals.

Coach Enthusiastic About Young Cross-Country Team

West Texas State University's young but experienced cross-country team opens its season Thursday against Texas Tech, Lubbock Christian College and Wayland Baptist College in Plainview.

The team, coached by Bob Kitchens, enters the meet as defending champion. WTSU has won the meet for the last two years, but this year will not have that opportunity since team points will not be awarded.

Practice for the team began recently on the campus, and team members put in 90 miles of running.

Kitchens is enthusiastic about his team this fall and its opportunity to place well in the Missouri Valley Conference title race.

One reason for this enthusiasm:

"On the first day they were here we ran a four-mile time trial," Kitchens said. "Last year the race was won by a guy who ran it in 22:19."

This year, Kitchens' top runner made the four-mile run in 20:03. His slowest runner made it in 22:45.

"This is the best cross-country team I've ever had," Kitchens said. "This year I have the only people I've ever had that I could really call a cross-country team."

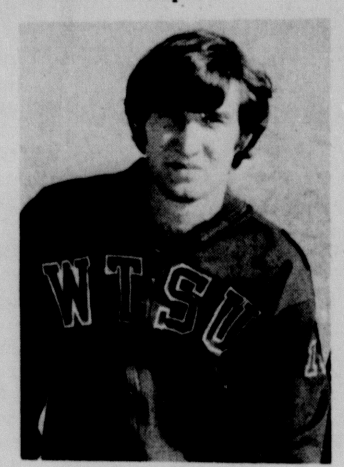

The nucleus of this year's team consists of last year's standout runner Jim Hogan, a Buffalo, N.Y., senior, and two freshmen. Hogan holds the meet record for the Plainview tournament coming up later this week.

The freshmen are two young men who attended the same high school in New York as Hogan.

"Larry Lane, a freshman from Depew, N.Y., will be a tremendous runner," Kitchens said. "He has a lot of power and ran a 9:19 for the two-mile in high school. I look for him to be a great runner."

Another freshman is Wally Nowicki, who pulled a 4:25 mile and 9:37 two-mile in high school. "Wally has lots of talent, too," Kitchens said. "Both these boys are just 17 years old, but they both know the sport."

Jim Hogan

Kitchens is also pleased with two other runners who tried out and made the team unrecruited.

Lindsey Snodgrass, a freshman from Dell City, broke a bone in his leg last summer and will be out of play for about two weeks. Kitchens said Snodgrass "has lots of character and determination."

The other freshman expected to help round out the squad is Robert McElroy of Crowell, who as a senior in high school ran a 4:57 mile.

Kitchens has room for enthusiasm with his team. Last year, the WTSU squad finished last in the MVC meet to decide the conference championship.

The coach expects to do much better this fall.

But, before that meet, the WTSU runners meet a host of other competitors.

Their schedule includes:

Sept. 30—Eastern New Mexico Invitational at Portales. Included in the meet will be Texas Tech, New Mexico State, South Plains Junior College and others on a four-mile course.

Oct. 7—WTSU Invitational. Entries are not scheduled yet.

Oct. 14—Portales meet. Included in the six-mile run will be teams from Eastern New Mexico University, and University of Texas at El Paso, the defending NCAA cross-country champions.

Oct. 21—Dual meet with Texas Tech over a four-mile course.

Oct. 28—A return to Portales for a 6-mile run against ENMU and the University of New Mexico.

Nov. 4—The Missouri Valley Conference championship meet at Peoria, Ill. The one-day meet will cover five miles.

Counties Oppose Proposals

County Judge Woody Pond returned from Amarillo this week with a new title and an armload of resolutions to carry to Austin next month, one of which strongly opposes recommendations to change much of the Texas court structure proposed by the Texas Supreme Court chief justice.

Pond was elected president of the Panhandle County Judges and Commissioners Association last week and was handed nine resolutions passed by that body to present to the state association when it meets in early October.

The most far-reaching resolution passed by the association—which includes Randall County's commissioners—opposes proposals for court changes by the Chief Justice's Task Force for Court Improvement.

Specifically attacked in the resolution is the task force's recommendation that certain county-level elected offices and courts be abolished, that all judges and justices below district level be licensed to practice law, and that the legislature would have increased authority to provide for the selection rather than election of sheriffs, county attorneys, and county clerks.

The task force's recommendations were made public in The Canyon News several weeks ago. "We believe this is a danger and a threat to local government," the resolution states.

Four resolutions which were presented for adoption at the association meeting by Randall County delegates were passed.

They include a resolution calling for the granting of homestead exemptions to single as well as married persons, a resolution opposing the establishment of district appraisal centers for taxing entities, a resolution concerning delinquent tax receipts, and a resolution opposing the establishment of regional data processing centers to service taxing jurisdictions.

In the resolution expressing opposition to the Chief Justice's Task Force findings, the commissioners said they are against

"any changes in our state constitution that would take away from the local people their constitutional right to elect any and all local county officials and judges which they now have and strongly oppose the requirement that judges below the level of district judge be required to be licensed to practice law."

Jowell 4-H Elects Officers

Plans for the coming year and election of new officers were in the order of business at the first fall meeting of the Jowell 4-H Club at the Jowell School House on Friday, Sept. 1. James Irlbeck, outgoing president, was the presiding officer.

New officers elected are as follows: president, Ronda Davis; vice president, Greg Henders;

secretary-treasurer, Gary Henders; reporter, Janie Irlbeck; photographer, Neal Henders; council delegate, Shawn Hall; adult leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Findley.

The club voted to pick up beer cans along country roads for a club project.

Mrs. Walter Cranmer served refreshments to the 11 members.

Parts Firm Opens Here

A relatively new auto parts supply company that held its grand opening last week is now a part of the Canyon business picture.

Steve's Auto Parts, at 2111 1st Ave., is owned and operated by Steve Hines, a 1949 graduate of Canyon High School.

The facility, which handles new automobile parts and accessories, has been open about two months and employs four persons, including the owner's wife, Mary Alice.

The Hineses live at 1008 5th St., and have two children, Brett, 6, and Missy, age 1. Mrs. Hines, a graduate of Dalhart High School and West Texas State University, serves as bookkeeper for the firm.

Audubon Group Starts Season

The Texas Panhandle Audubon Society will open a new season with its regular monthly meeting at the Amarillo Garden Center on Monday evening, Sept. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will consist of viewing color slides brought in by members. Mrs. Esther Waddill of Amarillo is program chairman. Guests are welcome.

Dr. Charles Smith of the biology department at West Texas State University, president of the Texas Panhandle Audubon Society, made the announcement.

Items Needed For Booklet

January's show will mark the 25th year for the Randall County Junior Livestock Show and sponsors need help commemorating the event.

County Agent John Brazzil will be collecting old news clippings, pictures and other items from the past 24 years of shows in an effort to compile a commemorative booklet for this year's show.

By CAROL CRAIN
"THE LADY BUGS" WILL HAVE a booth at the Tri-State Fair this year and offer artistic hand painted and hand crafted items for sale.

The clever ladies include Mattie Moreland, Glenna Wilson, Mary Jo Hales, and Margaret Reid. The fair runs September 18 through the 23 and will have many booths of interest.

The Lady Bugs will have their goodies at reasonable prices. I understand, so plan to shop for Christmas a bit early.

These are very talented women in our community — so drop by to see them fair week.

FORMER WTSU STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT, Larry Elms has recently graduated from the University of Houston Law School and is now practicing in Lubbock.

The well liked and personable Elms is with Edwards and Associates with offices in downtown Lubbock.

His residence address is 119 Ave. X, Apt. 211 W. in Lubbock.

TRISHA FAUBIAN, another WTSU graduate, is also in Lubbock finishing graduate work in music. Trisha has headed the "TEXAS" orchestra for the past two seasons.

In case you would like to write her, her address is 3520 24th St., Lubbock, Tx.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY for 27 year old Bud Higginbotham was held recently at the home of the Dee Nix's.

Several close friends of the Higginbothams attended the chip & dip event — which was a surprise to the honoree. Those attending included the Gene Eades of Pampa, the D.J. Greenwoods III's, and the Gary Turners.

VISITING IN THE CITY RECENTLY was Mrs. Dale Knight, the former Fran Riney. The WTSU graduate now resides in Alexandria, Virginia.

Mrs. Knight plans to return to see more acquaintances at WTSU's Homecoming, October 13 and 14.

EVERYONE IS TALKING ABOUT THE NEW restaurant that will feature international cuisine as well as steaks. More on the opening and facilities as it becomes available.

IT IS A BIT DISCOURAGING to have five puppies to give away and narrow it down to only four — then have another dropped over your fence! I am here to tell you!

I feel that someone is reading this column, but perhaps not understanding the situation. No, I am not in the puppy raising or wholesale business — but do have some to give away!

Our new addition is a very cute male (black with brown) dachshund that looks to be a small sized one. He is really cute — besides he could have crawled in by mistake, I guess. If he's yours or you want him, let me know.

COMMUNITY CONCERT WORKERS are now combing the city selling memberships on the concert season.

If you are interested, and a worker has not contacted you, call Mrs. Gerald Schultz.

THE FIRST POTLUCK DINNER of the year will be hosted by the International Students Saturday evening at 7 p.m. at Dr. and Mrs. L.A. Blumer of 2606 Harmony in Amarillo.

Persons attending the food fare each bring a dish from their native land — and the result is delicious.

BLAINE PURCELL, son of Congressman Graham Purcell, was in the city this past weekend. Blaine, actually Dr. Purcell, is a recent graduate of Texas A & M's School of Veterinary Medicine. He is currently serving in the Green Berets.

While in the city, the Congressman's son visited the Palo Duro Canyon and enjoyed the "Evening of Dance" performed there this past weekend.

Blaine will be among the guests at his father's Appreciation Dinner held Saturday in the patio of the Amarillo Civic Center.

US Senator Lloyd Bentsen was the guest speaker, and the head table saw some 15 Texas Congressmen in attendance.

The patio was set in red, white and blue with geraniums and flags used in the decor. The setting there is beautiful with the lovely planters filled with flowers and the spotlighted fountain.

A budget hearing for a $1.2 million proposed budget for Randall County is scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. Monday before county commissioners.

Commissioners expressed approval of the budget at last week's meeting. The budget calls for no tax increase this year.

Other business the county is expected to take up at their meeting includes discussion of a request to open a road by John McClure, request to dedicate a road by P.D. Wheeler and a request from the sheriff's office for more equipment.

Cowboys Find New Home in 27-0 Win

Fourth quarters have broken and made the Happy Cowboys' season this fall.

After losing on a couple of fourth quarter fumbles last week, the Cowboys exploded in fourth quarter action Friday night to romp the New Home Leopards 27-0.

All of Happy's scoring came in the fourth stanza as the Cowboys took advantage of New Home fumbles and mistakes in the last 6 minutes of play.

Chris Pearson made three Happy scores on one-, 24-, and 36-yard runs. Gregg Looney picked up another Cowboy touchdown with a six-yard run.

Scoring was rounded out by a Looney extra point conversion and a kick by Andy Hand.

"It was all defensive during the first three quarters," said Coach Robert Criswell. "We made a lot of mistakes and made a lot of fumbles."

In racking up their win, the Cowboys tallied 301 yard rushing compared to 148 tallied by the Leopards.

Happy made 17 first downs while New Home made 11.

Next opponent for the Cowboys is Whiteface at Whiteface next Friday night.

Another Cow Hits Record

A new food production achievement for a Texas Registered Holstein cow has been reported by Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

The new record holder for her age group is Palo-Duro Charming S. Artis 7108119, owned by Louis G. Hinders, Canyon. The New class leader has completed a lactation level of 22,138 lbs. of milk and 821 lbs. of butterfat in 365 days.

This represents a new and higher production record for officially tested senior two-year-old Registered Holsteins milked 2 times daily in the 365-day division of the DHIR program.

"Artis" was bred in the herd of her present owner. She was sired by Glenafon Rag Apple Chamer 1357743 (EX), a bull that has earned Gold Medal Sire recognition.

The previous lactation record in this age group for milk for Registered Holsteins was held by Palo-Duro Rag Apple Walker 7218805 owned by Michael Hinders, Canyon. She formerly headed this age group with a production level of 22,031 lbs. of milk and 886 lbs. of butterfat.

Production sampling, weighing and testing operations were supervised by Texas A. & M. University working in cooperation with the national Holstein organization.

The Church of Christ in Canyon invites the public to hear Mr. Banister each evening, Monday thru Thursday, at 7:30. Sunday services are at 8:30, 10:20 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.

The six girls are Dian Elliston and Patty Robie, from Alpha Delta Pi, Connie Hearon and Diane Winn, from Delta Zeta, Molly Malone and Terie Beth Line, from Chi Omega, and Deltah Roberts and Sandra McGill, from Zeta Tau Alpha.

Happy Has Chance To Organize Cowbell Club

By MARY NEAL HENRY

HAPPY IS to have a chance to organize a Cowbell Club. This is an organization which involves anyone who has an interest in or is just interested in cattle. Thirty-eight states have Cowbells — making it a national organization. Texas, one of the leading states in the cattle business, was the 36th to organize. Mrs. Betty Carruthers of Hereford is Texas State President. Anyone interested in the purpose and functions of Cowbells or interested in forming a Cowbell is invited to tea and coffee at Mrs. Dee Taylors' home at 302 N. Floyd in Happy on Wednesday, September 20th at 2:00 p.m.

Co-hostesses for the occasion are Mrs. George Woods and Mrs. John Butler. Mrs. Janie Frost will be a special guest. Janie has been a member of Cowbells in San Jon, New Mexico for several years. Meet me there!

RAPHE SHIPMAN WAS honored on his eleventh birthday on Wednesday of last week with a birthday party, ice cream and cake and all the trimmings at his grandparents, Gracie and Frank Tiley. Helping celebrate were Judy and Gene and Mandi Shipman; Nan Earl, Patricia, Tonya, and Jerry Doyle Geathreux; George, Sara and Jim Tiley; Jeanne, Ronnie, Jay Wade and Roxie Johnson, Lena Bell Cabe and Mrs. Lizzie Wesley. PHYLLIS BRYAN WAS hostess to the Sunnyhill Home Demonstration Club on Thursday of last week. Roll call was answered with "My Greatest Resource." After the business meeting conducted by President Mrs. Ken Danner, Mrs. Becky Hall, Randall County Agent gave an interest program on "Resources — Key to Power." Coffee and donuts were served to members, Barbara Danner, Leona Henry, Mary Wilhelm and Lisa and Tresa, Gwen Tucek and Melissa, Jo Hand, Judy Shipman, Helen Bryan and Rowdy, myself and the hostess, Phyllis Bryan and guest, Mrs. Becky Hall.

JOYCE GAZZAWAY STONEBERG and June Gazzaway Preston were visitors in Happy on Saturday. Joyce flew in from Poquason, Virginia before Labor Day and has been visiting in Dallas with June and in Altus, Oklahoma, with her Dad, William Gazzaway. Joyce, June, and William (Bill) were dinner guests at Mrs. Edna Wilson's on Saturday and several called during the day to visit with Joyce. This was my second visit with Joyce in eighteen years and I really enjoyed it. Joyce has a son in college in Virginia and four other sons and a daughter, who is 14 years old (5 boys and one girl). Donald has recently retired from the service. Joyce's plans were to fly home on Monday.

JOYCE STONEBERG, JUNE STONEBERG, Mrs. Edna Wilson and Priest Rogers were among those at the Miller Reunion at Lake Brownwood during the Labor Day holidays.

MRS. BILL TIREY, Georgine that is, was honored with a Pink and Blue Shower in the home of Willa Elliott. Willa Jane McManigal and Sweetie Johnson served as co-hostesses. Gifts were opened on Sunday afternoon and pie, grapes, nuts, mints, tea and coffee were served to the honoree, Mrs. Eula West of Gainesville, Linda and Nancy West of Canyon, Jeanne and Roxie Johnson, Helen Bennett, Pat Hargrave, Charlette and Ramona Weavers, Alice Penn, Joyce Wheat, Belle Cabe, Nancy and Louise White, Judy and Mandi Shipman, Sara Tiley, Gracie Tiley, Mildred Middleton, and hostesses and Christi McManigal, all from home.

HAPPY JUNIOR HIGH was clobbered by Claude last Thursday night at Happy. Let's don't even talk about it.

HAPPY COWBOYS ALSO lost to Claude the following night there. The score was something like 30 to 19. Johnny Payne, Chris Pearson and Greg Looney made the touchdowns and Mark Hargrave kicked the extra goal. At one time in the third quarter Happy led by one point. Stuart Tackitt was injured during the game when his right shoulder was knocked out of place. But his Mom "fixed" it. Stu was looking really fine at church by Sunday morning.

HAPPY JAYCEE-ETTES ATTENDED the SIT-IN-HEN Meeting at Hereford on Friday night. Sara Tiley, Judy Shipman, Skip Simons, and Joy Freeman attended the business meeting, gave Happy's report and heard Dr. Rush speak on Cancer. Plans are under way to attend the Area Convention meeting in Pampa in October.

The American Legion Auxiliary met in the hospitality room of the First State Bank in Happy to install officers and discuss business on Thursday, September 7. Leola Sexton installed Ora Mary Sims as president; Lavenna Jackson as secretary-treasurer; Lena Ponder as historian and Minnie Via as chaplain. Business discussed included the Citizenship Award and Girls State projects. Their aim for this year is to be 100% in membership. Ora Mary Sims and Leola Sexton served refreshments to Lena Ponder, Lavenna Jackson, Stone Cope and Lois Greenfield.

RICK SPEAR IS going to West Texas instead of Amarillo College. Guess men can change their minds, too. Ferne says he is very happy there. (I know several that are).

JIM MCMANIGAL IS at West Texas, too, teaching, that is. Jim told me the other night it isn't as easy teaching as kids think that it is. (You have to outsmart several of them). Jim will supervise the Nance Ranch Feedlot project and new pork center which is under construction at the ranch area. Jim was an honor graduate of Texas A&M and formerly supervised the wine center at Tech. Many of you remember Jim as a good showman even when he first started out and I'll bet he is a good instructor. Jim is married to Willa Jane (Elliott) and they have one daughter, Christi.

JOHN MCNEILL IS attending the University of Kentucky. DORENE AND SHERMAN Cox are grandparents again. Jim and Jini have a baby girl, Jo Nell, who was born August 28th, weighing five pounds and fourteen ounces. She has black hair and dark blue eyes and big brother, Jay. Jay wouldn't come home with his Granny either. He had to stay in Frisco and take care of that new baby sister.

CAROL AND ELMO Edmonds of Quitaque have a new girl born on September 1st. Grandparents are Doll and George Edmonds.

MRS. OSCAR REED was honored on her 81st birthday with coffee and cake at Anna Mae McManigal's home. Mrs. Vaughn, Mrs. Smythe, and Velma Greenfield helped celebrate and Merle White and Lizzie Wesley sent birthday cards, but were unable to attend. Happy birthday, Mrs. Reed.

MERLE AND ERNEST White left Thursday of last week on a European Tour. They plan to be away for a month. Mack White is taking care of their things while they are away.

JETTIE AND AMOS Ratjen are also on that European trip. The first stop was Paris.

FRANCES AND MARVIN Flowers had a weiner roast and cake party on Sunday evening for the young people of the First Baptist Church. Some rode out in the church bus and some rode out in cars. Enjoying the food and games were Lonnie Tackitt, Stuart Tackitt, Kyle Todd, Andy Butler, Terry McDonald, Sonny Box, Denise Cope, Megayla Thornton, Connie Hand, Colette McCarley, and Paula Heil. The young people were acquainted with Serendipity.

SERENDIPITY WILL BE held at 5 p.m. this Sunday and every Sunday at the First Baptist Church for any young people who are interested. You be curious enough to be there.

THE TRI-STATE High School Rodeo Club met on Tuesday night of last week. New officers elected are president; Becky Via; vice president, Mark Hargrave; secretary, Debra Magness; corresponding secretary, Pam Shipman; treasurer, Brenda Dietz. The scrapbook committee is Jan Whitlow, Pam Tatum, Valerie Tipps, Sherry Starkey and Dayna Venhaus. Among the business brought before the club was allowing members of other towns to join their club and the purchase of saddle blankets.

THE WOMEN'S STUDY Club opened their year with a coffee at Novalene Toles' home. Royce Vernon served as co-hostess. Joan McDonald, new president, served the coffee from a table decorated in yellow and white, her chosen colors. Willa Elliott led the club collect and Royce led the song. Anna Bee Robinson, civic committee chairman, received expressions of appreciation for the parade float. Special thanks went to Mildred Devin, Joan McDonald, and Willie Butler. Mrs. Pete Odom announced an award Certificate for Civic Improvement. The club voted to donate $25 to Girls' Town. Mildred Devin explained the purpose of the program theme for the new year, "The Challenge of Change, Changes and Choices." Present were: Mildred Devin, Joan Odom, Ollie Nichols, Sara Gurley, Willa Elliott, Ann Looney, Anna Bee Robinson, Willie Butler, Joan McDonald, Jesse Francis, Faye Johnston, Polly Walters, Catherine Miller, Dora Ratjen, Sweetie Johnson, Merle White, Iene Uselding, Ora Mary Sims, Anna Mae McManigal, Mildred Middleton, Royce Vernon, and Novalene Toles.

and shoulder area. That address is 8330 Main Street, Houston.

INEZ SHIPMAN DROPPED me a line from Del Norte or Center, Colorado. Inez and Hollis had parked their trailer at the Cal Middleton's. They've seen Loraine (Newsome) Lacy at Center and Inez says it is beautiful there... near the mountains, flowers blooming in abundance, vegetable gardens. They've been sight-seeing around Wolf Creek Pass, La Veta Pass, San Luis Valley, over the Continental Divide, through the Black Canyon of the Gunnison National Forest, and Blue Mesa Reservoir. The Aspens are beginning to change colors there. The Shipmans will be home soon. They've also visited Sharrell and Nancy Selvidge in Alamosa. That is only about 34 miles away.

INEZ HAD to have four stitches in a finger last week at Center and she said the doctor there got a big laugh out of the name of our town.

HAPPY JAYCEE-ETTES MET Tuesday night. Sandra Penn, who is a child welfare worker in Amarillo, was special guest speaker. She spoke on foster children, their problems and fears. Sandra stated the need for foster homes and that none exist in Swisher County.

SARA TIREY CALLED the meeting to order. Dottie Foster led the creed, Jeanne Johnson called the roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting. The club voted to buy a camera. Jeanne Johnson was appointed chairman of the Tasting Date. Tentative date is Nov. 10. Della Venhaus served apple pie and tea to Joyce Wethington, Joy Freeman, Jeanne Tiley, Kay Venhaus, Sara Tiley, Dot Foster, Lynn Ritter, Susan Rahlfs, Della Venhaus, Lavenna Jackson, Judy Shipman, Betty Stockett, Skip Simons and myself.

JUDY SHIPMAN WAS appointed chairman of the clinic to be held in Pampa on October 20, 21 and 22. The topic is "The Duties of Officers."

HAPPY JAYCEES WON the travel trophy, which was a pair of Justin Boots at the Tulia Work Forum for this region. Congratulations, Lloyd Rahlfs!

TEN COUPLES AND three Jaycees attended from Happy. Tulia, Plainview and Muleshoe were also represented.

IF YOU HAVEN'T registered to vote in the coming presidential election, there is still time. You must register at least thirty days prior to the election. Registration will continue through October 7 for the November 7 election. This will be the first election in which 18 year olds can vote. But register today.

City Commission To Meet Monday Night

Make your vote count. They are counted one by one, you know.

See ya!
Mary Neal

The Canyon City Commission, in its regular semi-monthly session Monday, will discuss and possibly take action on a variety of governmental matters.

Early in the session the commission has scheduled a public hearing for consideration of annexation of property situated just north of the city limits. The proposed action was begun August 21, with final passage or defeat set for Nov. 6.

The city will ask for bids on 1,000 feet of fire hose as it does each year. Deputy Fire Chief Joe Rice is also expected to issue a report on fire department activities and planned innovations in the department.

In response to a request made by the Canyon Planning and Zoning Commission, a proposed ordinance dealing with church parking in the retail districts will be presented to members for consideration.

Because of past survey errors, consideration is to be given to a replat of Hidden Valley, Unit 8. The properties involved front on the northside of Brookhaven Drive and lie between 11th Street and 18th Street.

As requested by Larry Hooper, the commission is expected to again look into the matter of closing West 8th Street between blocks three and four.

Ordinance No. 340, which completes the 1972-73 assessment program, will also be presented to commission members for consideration.

Following completion of the agenda, the commission will be open to other business matters and comments from the public.

Ronnie Whitney made the 8th graders' first score on a 30-yard run in the first quarter. Clovis rebounded with a scoring pass play to make the halftime score 6-

Buffalo Boosters Hear Mayfield - See Practice Film

The Buffalo Booster Club, with about 30 members in attendance Thursday night heard Coach Gene Mayfield discuss this weekend's gridiron bout with Drake University and viewed film of two recent controlled scrimmages.

The loss of two key players to injuries and another through a family death was mentioned by Mayfield. The losses, he said could greatly affect his team's prospects for the encounter with Drake.

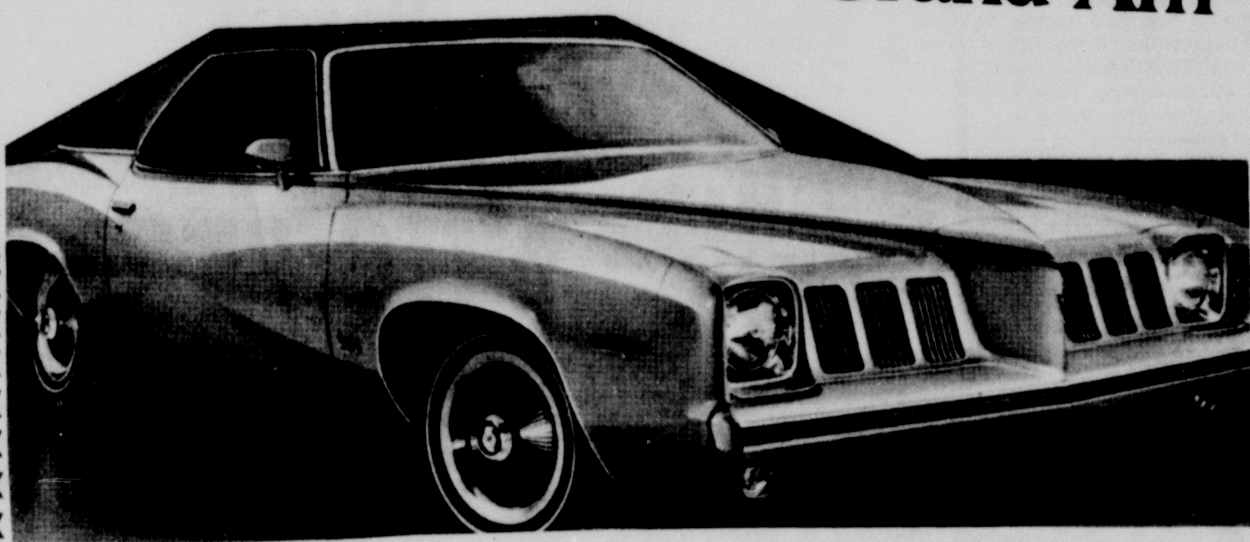

In a more light-hearted moment, Mayfield said that the newspapers, obviously meaning the "Northern Press," had warned him about the great passing of Drake quarterback Dennis Redmond and another lesser known ballcarrier. "Right now I'm not too concerned about it," the coach was quoted as saying.

The club meets each Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the First National Bank in Canyon. The next gathering will feature highlights of the WTSU-Drake game.
